

Mention Around the Mills

Central Warehouse Office Chatter Vs. Jabber By Glennice Jones

The time of white shoes, straw hats, and wide-open windows has at last arrived with many plans of going to Fairystone which has finally opened, and to picnics, and weiner roasts.

Minnie Gilley is now Minnie Steele after a beautiful ceremony at the home of the Ellenberg's last week. Some of the girls who went reported that Minnie was a lovely bride. She and Jack are going to live on Hamilton Street.

We were pleased to see Iva Pendleton back after several weeks absence. Also to hear that her husband, Ethan, will be home soon. Iva has been really smiling since she heard the good news.

Rebecca Pender startled us the other morning when she arrived at work showing signs of the accident she was in the previous afternoon. Poor Becky, she was just starving. All of us immediately regained lost appetites after hearing of the luscious pork chops she couldn't eat!

Will someone please donate a pillow for Ed Martin's chair? He has been using a piece of cloth. Of course, that is all right with us, or it would be if it just didn't clash with Ed's clothes! It is such a vile shade of pea green that every time we look in that direction we are temporarily blinded.

Mamie Burcham says she enjoyed housecleaning during her vacation, but we expect she spent most of her time playing with her niece, Joyce, who learned to say "Mamie" while she was out.

Bertha Mae Pyron made another trip to Washington. Say, girls, have you seen that dress that she has with "Love and Romance" spelled out on it! We hear it is a very lucky dress!

Otis Koontz is "grandpappy" again to Marion and Ann Koontz Hutton's new baby girl.

Blanket Mill By Katherine Turner

We are glad to see Mr. and Mrs. George Slayton back home again.

Buck Thompson and Margaret Kelley came back to work with us this week.

Best wishes to Bessie Tiller and Belvie Hawkins, Mary Willard and J. C. Stultz, who were recently married.

Recent proud parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Nolen, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Eanes, Mr. and Mrs. Daley Gambel.

We are hoping to see Jess Slayton and Lillie Williams back soon. Absent because of illness.

We are in deep sympathy with Mrs. Bill Howell and children for the loss of her husband on Sunday, May 19. Bill will be missed by his helpers on second shift, Carding.

"Sewing lessons free," see Drange Giles or ask George Hopper; he knows.

Wanted: Safety pins in case of accident. See "Rick" the Dope Man.

Rayon Mill By Mildred Saunders and Virginia Ward

We take this occasion to welcome Miss Annie Ruth Haley, our new secretary. Miss Haley replaces Martha Jane Dunn, who accepted a position in Richmond. Good luck, "Mockie."

The Preparation department received a card from Nettie Durham thanking them for gifts and letters. We hope she can be back with us soon.

Mary Jane Rocks, six months old, is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rocks, Baltimore. Mary Jane's grandmother, Mrs. Mary Amos, works in the Rayon Entering department.

It's good to see George Holland, another serviceman, back to work.

We will clarify the mystery for those who saw the preacher, the mayor of North Spray (whoever that is) and a crowd of other folks at the home of Mr.

College Girls Tour The Mills

A group of 22 art and home economics students from Woman's College, Greensboro, headed by Miss Noma Hardin, assistant professor of art, visited the Manufacturing Division Wednesday, May 15. Included in the group were two other members of the Woman's College faculty, Miss Mary K. Williams, of the Art department; and Miss Agnes N. Coxe, associate professor of home economics.

The visit was in the nature of a field trip for juniors and seniors majoring in art or home economics. They were chiefly interested in textile designing, fabric testing, and types of looms.

The Research and Quality Control department was visited first and the girls saw various fabric testing devices in use in the laboratory. From there they went to the domestics designing department where they were much interested in our designs. They were joined by Miss Jean Kelley and Miss Mary Alice Hancock, of the designing department former students at Woman's College.

The day's activities included a tour through the blanket and sheeting mills, luncheon at Draper Y.M.C.A., a tour through the Bedspread and Karastan mills, and the Karastan Designing department, in which they were intensely interested.

The visit ended with a meeting in the Training department conference room where the girls saw our film "The Crest of Quality."

and Mrs. Roy Martin Saturday night. It was not a wedding or funeral but a good old fashioned weiner roast with lots of fun.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Berry and daughter, Priscilla Dawn, were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Amos.

That family reunion Ronald Brown has been planning is well under way. He received word Thomas Brown, RM 3/c, has landed at Treasure Island, San Francisco.

This really must be the perfect time for a vacation. Proof of it is the fact that: N. H. McCollum enjoyed a fishing trip this week. J. I. Johnston is spending this week in Hickory, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Webb and Mae, a week-end in Roanoke.

Somehow the tough breaks always seem to hit the nicest people. At this writing Lily Mae Robertson was home sick and Zellie Land is a patient at the Leaksville Hospital. If good wishes will speed your recovery, we know you'll be back soon.

Last Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Walker Curry entertained at a chicken fry at their home on the Draper road. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Olderman, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Hankins
