

Gambill And Riley Receive Promotions

Daily Gambill and Rupert Riley have recently received promotions at the Blanket Mill. Daily Gambill was promoted to foreman of the Blanket Cloth Inspection Dept. effective December 1 succeeding Earnard A. Jefferson, who retired under the Company's Pension Plan. Rupert Riley was appointed assistant foreman of the Blanket Cloth Inspection Dept. on the second shift effective November 15. He was transferred from the Wastemeter division of the Standards Dept.

Both men are graduates from North Carolina State College with a B.S. degree in textile manufacturing. Both served overseas as officers in World War II. Mr. Gambill is native of Independence, Va., and has been with the Company since June, 1941, except for his war service. He has worked through all of the departments at the Blanket Mill under the student training program and had served as assistant foreman in the Jack Spinning Dept. on the third shift.

Born in Raleigh, Mr. Riley joined the Company in May, 1946, and worked

Pfc. Elmo Hundley Wounded In Korea

A message from the War Department received December 11 by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse J. Hundley, of Stoneville Road, informed them that their son, Private First Class Elmo B. (Pete) Hundley, was wounded in action on or about December 1 while serving with the American Army in Korea.

The young soldier's father is employed in the Karastan Weave Room.

Pfc. Hundley was serving with the 31st Infantry regiment of the Seventh Division which formed part of the 20,000 American troops trapped by the Chinese invaders in North Korea. After receiving wounds, the extent of which were not described in the War Department's message, Pfc. Hundley was flown to Osaka, Japan, and is now a patient in the U. S. Army hospital in that city.

His parents are hopeful that their son may be flown to the States soon and placed in a hospital here where they may visit him.

This is the second blow brought to the Hundley home here by the war. Pvt. Elrin M. Hundley, a brother of Elmo's, was killed in action in Korea on October 13.

PROUD PAPA:—Carl Benjamin Duntton, 3 months old December 15, is shown above with his father, B. F. Duntton, assistant purchasing agent. His mother (Barbara) is on leave of absence from the Personnel Department, Spray.

Young Carl was only seven weeks old when the picture was made. When he was 10 weeks old, he made a motor trip to upstate New York to visit his paternal grandparents.
