

Draper Employees Cooperate In Blood Program

Among early arrivals to donate blood were Bill Stone (left) and Barnard Ashworth, both of Blanket Mill, being registered by volunteer workers, Mrs. Ben Dunton and Mrs. Nick Sacrinty.

Louie Durham, of the Blanket Mill, has blood pressure taken by Dr. R. M. Jamison. In background, Lucille Bradford, Sheeting Mill, is checked by Claudia McBride, a registered nurse.

Richard Minter, of Blanket Mill Wool Spinning, has his hemoglobin checked by Dolores Grant, one of the registered nurses from the Blood Center in Charlotte.

Willie E. Moyer (left), of the Blanket Mill, and Napoleon Blackstock, of the Sheeting Mill, receive blood containers. Seated are Mrs. C. B. Barham (left) and Mrs. J. E. Dougherty.

First man down the line to donate blood was Euel Clifton, of the Sheeting Mill. He is shown as he receives blood container from Mrs. Lloyd Golding, one of the volunteers who assisted.

Frances Compton, of Blanket Mill Wool Spinning, and Garvin Sawyers, Blanket Mill Inspecting, are served refreshments after giving blood by Mrs. Bill Goldston, a volunteer worker.