

Luby Skinner, foreman of Twisting and Reeling, turns the tumbler as Lillian James, reeler, looks on during drawing for prizes among United Fund day's pay contributors at Karastan Spinning Division in Greenville.

David Baker, fixer in the Spinning Department, is presented a Country Garden towel gift set as award given among day's pay contributors to United Fund on second shift. Making the presentation is Melvin Moore, plant superintendent.

Day's Pay Winners Named At Greenville

Drawings for prizes among all employees who contributed a day's pay or more in the United Fund campaign at the Karastan Spinning Division at Greenville were held in the mill conference room November 19.

Harold Jones was winner of the prize in the drawing among first shift contributors. David Baker was winner for the second shift and Tim Eakes for the third shift. Each was presented a beautiful gift-wrapped towel set.

In addition to the winners among production employees, Phil Chambley won the prize among supervisors and Dennis Berkley was winner among clerical employees.

In a record-breaking response in this year's United Fund Campaign at Greenville, 98 per cent of the employees of the Karastan Spinning Division made contributions to the campaign. Ninety-six percent of the employees contributed on the day's pay basis and 80 percent signed up for deductions to continue in succeeding years. Only six employees in the plant failed to contribute any amount.

Job Price Goes Up

A recent survey of 20 leading U. S. firms shows that they invested an average of $28,901 in plant, tools and working capital for each employee on the payroll. This indicates the huge amount of investment required to provide jobs for those of us who get our livelihood from industry.

Fieldcrest Hunters

Lewis McDaniel, of the Sheeting Carding Department, and his son, Larry McDaniel, of the Bleachery Cloth Finishing Department, are shown with a deer they killed in Floyd County, Va., on the first day of the hunting season.

Denny Grandchildren

Tony, five years old, and Billie, four months, are children of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Denny of 423 Bridge Street, Leaksville, and grandchildren of Harold L. Denny of the Carding Department at the Sheeting Mill.
