

MHS Commercial Seniors See Office Operations

On visit to General Offices, group of commercial students from Morehead High School admire product displays in lobby prior to making a tour of the building.

James E. Jones describes Accounts Payable operations. At desk is Virginia Hurd.

Russell Cherry tells students about programming in Data Processing Department.

Fieldcrest was host recently to commercial seniors from Morehead High School who visited the General Offices building and were conducted on tours of the various staff departments.

Accompanied by Mrs. Joan City, commercial teacher, the students made the field trip in order to observe office procedures and to see modern business machines in operation. They were particularly interested in our Data Processing Department.

The group arrived about 1:30 p. m. and assembled in the conference room. There, Robert L. Moore, employment manager, welcomed them and outlined which departments they would visit and what they would have an opportunity to see during their visit. He explained our employment application procedures and Fieldcrest's hiring practices.

The visitors were then divided into small groups and conducted on tours of the offices.
