

Check is presented for purchase of football seats at Fieldale-Collinsville High School.

Booster Club Aids High School

The Fieldale-Collinsville High School Booster Club recently presented a check for $13,000 to school officials as part of the cost of 2,016 concrete bleacher seats for the football stadium at the new school.

The remainder of the funds in the $20,000 project have been pledged and when collected will be turned over to the school board.

The money was raised in a campaign headed by D. E. Simons, superintendent at the Towel Mill, who was the first president of the Booster Club. The funds were contributed by interested companies, businesses, and individuals in the Fieldale-Collinsville area.

12-Point Buck Killed By Blanket Mill Man

Willie Powell, a long-service employee of the Blanket Mill, is shown with a 12-point buck weighing an estimated 250-275 pounds which he killed in Pittsylvania County, Va.

Although he has hunted every season for 15 years or more and has killed a number of deer, this one was the largest he ever killed. He gave the meat to friends and had the head mounted.

When he killed the big deer, he was hunting with Mickey Powell, his son; and Doug Shelton, both of whom are employed by Central Telephone Company. The three usually hunt together and frequently hunt with P. G. Lawson, of Vesta, Va., a retired Blanket Mill employee.

In addition to hunting with guns, Mr. Powell and his son hunt every season with bows and arrows.

Wm. Moses Retires At Mt. Holly

William R. Moses, a warper tender on the second shift, retired from the Mount Holly Spinning Mill December 1. He has been running warpers for the past 43 years, having begun his textile career in 1922 at the Clover Manufacturing Company, Clover, S. C.

Mr. Moses came to Fieldcrest from the National Yarn Mill, at Belmont in July, 1963. His future plans include gardening and "just relaxing".
