

For The Record

It was stated in The Mill Whistle's last issue that the Bedsread Mill had 71.7% participation in the Student Center fund campaign. This should have read Bedsread "Finishing" Mill. The Bedsread Mill was listed correctly with 58.9%.

An additional winner of a gift certificate in mills where 100% of the employees participated was Samuel Chilton, of the Non-Woven Blanket Mill.

To further set the record straight, Vicki Patterson, who won a gift certificate, is from the Sheet Finishing Office, where 100% of the employees contributed. She was incorrectly listed as being from the Sheet Finishing "Superintendent's" Office.

Joyce Beheler Weds Joseph C. Kimbrell

Miss Joyce Blandina Beheler of Bostic and Joseph Cleits Kimbrell of Alexander were married in a ceremony performed recently at the First Baptist Church in Bostic. Rev. Tyler LeRoy, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Beheler of Route 1, Bostic, and is employed at Skyland Textile Company, Forest City. The bridegroom is the son of Lillian Kimbrell of Alexander and the late Archie Kimbrell and is employed at the Alexander plant.

Officials Cite Need For Imports Control

made of man-made fibers and wool."

If the well-established upward trend is permitted to continue unchecked, imports will seriously hamper the future growth and expansion of the American textile industry.

The textile industry, considered in this context, is an industrial complex including fiber growers and producers, transportation and merchandising, as well as the basic spinning, weaving, and finishing operations.

While cotton textile imports are partially controlled under the International Long-Term Cotton Textile Trade Arrangement, there are no provisions for orderly trade in man-made textile fibers or textile products of wool and man-made fiber. Because of the nature of today's textile industry, an all-fiber approach to reasonable and meaningful controls is the only way to develop orderly trade in textile articles.

Legislation has been introduced in both houses of the Congress which will (1) provide encouragement and additional authority for the President of the United States to negotiate bilateral agreements on textile articles or (2) in the absence of bilateral agreements, to create a series of quotas which will set specific levels for the amounts and kinds of textile articles entering this country and to provide for a reasonable amount of increased imports as the domestic market expands.

Secretary of Commerce Alexander B. Trowbridge has postponed until February an administration decision whether to seek further protection from imports for the domestic textile industry. The Tariff Commission, upon completion of its investigation into textile imports, will submit its report tentatively for January 15.

To live content with small means; to seek elegance rather than luxury, and refinement rather than fashion; to be worthy, not respectable, and wealthy, not rich; to study hard, think quietly, talk gently, act frankly; to listen to stars and birds, to babes and sages, with open heart; to bear all cheerfully, do all bravely, await occasions, hurry never. In a word, to let the spiritual, unbidden and unconscious, grow up through the common. This is to be my symphony
