

Two Fieldcresters Graduate In RCC Program

MARGARET ATKINS

ESTELLE MIZE

Two Fieldcrest employees were among the recent graduates of the adult high school program at Rockingham Community College. Receiving diplomas were Margaret H. Atkins and Estelle S. Mize.

Mrs. Atkins is a weaver at the Sheeting Mill; Mrs. Mize is employed in the Sewing Department of the Sheet Finishing Mill as an inspector-folder.

A number of other Fieldcrest employees have also graduated from this program, and some are continuing their education by attending classes at RCC.

New Facility Is Named Scottsboro Rug Mill

The small rug facility at Scottsboro, Ala., which Fieldcrest Mills, Inc. purchased from J. P. Stevens & Co., Inc. in May has been officially designated as Fieldcrest Mills, Inc., Scottsboro Rug Mill.

Homer L. Morris is manager of the Scottsboro Rug Mill, reporting to A. L. Jackson, division vice president-domestics manufacturing. Mr. Morris was formerly superintendent of the mill for Stevens.

While Fieldcrest is already engaged in the manufacture of small tufted rugs in a limited way, the addition of the Scottsboro Rug Mill will allow the development of a complete line of small tufted rugs. This line will be coordinated with the company's other lines of domestics products and sold under the Fieldcrest and St. Marys labels.

Swinney Wins Minor League Championship

Grover C. Swinney, Sr., a retired Fieldcrest, won the Minor League Checker Championship for North and South Carolina at the 51st annual tournament held in Charlotte in early July.

Mr. Swinney, who was a supervisor at the Blanket Mill before his retirement, has been dean of the Eden checker players for many years. He plays nearly every day at Central YMCA.

A total of 51 players participated in the checker tournament, with Elbert Lowder of Albemarle winning the Major League championship and Everett McQueen of Pacolet, S. C., winning the South Carolina championship.

Eden's Celebration Is Tremendous Success

the county. He holds the Distinguished Service Cross from World War I along with other American and British decorations.

F. C. Dumaine, Jr., of Boston, Mass., president of the Amoskeag Company and a director of Fieldcrest Mills, Inc. was among the many out-of-town guests attending the celebration.

The celebration was planned as a revival of the "grand and glorious" Fourth of a generation ago. It was backed by the Eden Jaycees, the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants Association, ministers, Boy Scouts, DeMolays, women's groups and other civic organizations.

G. William Moore, president of Fieldcrest Mills, Inc. and Henry Anderson, manager of Duke Power Company at Eden, were honorary chairmen of the event.

Card Of Thanks

Juanita B. Hinson wants to express her appreciation to all her friends at Fieldcrest for the many cards and remembrances she received during nearly two months of illness and absence from work.
