

E. R. Mills (left) and E. L. Elmore, of Engineering Department, Smithfield, examine control they developed.

Working mechanisms of new control are at left above, while at right the control is shown completely assembled.

Automatic Blanket With Solid State Control Is Introduced

Assembling controls in solid state section of Control Assembly Department, Smithfield, shown clockwise from right are Carolyn Braswell, Sue King, (foreman Shirley Black), Evelyn McLamb, Violet Barbour, Shirley Talton and Jenora Williams.

"Ultima", a new concept in automatic blankets, has recently been introduced by Fieldcrest and is now arriving at major stores throughout the country.

The solid state control, which is the outstanding feature of the new blanket, was developed by Fieldcrest engineering personnel of the Automatic Blanket Plant in Smithfield.

This control has components which replace the mechanical elements normally used in automatic blankets, and provides a more even flow of heat with less variation in temperature.

There are no moving parts in the "Ultima" solid state control, which has eliminated even the slight click generally heard with mechanical devices. The control is designed to hang by the bed for fingertip bedside use or to be converted to conventional night table use.

The Fieldcrest "Ultima" automatic blanket is made of 100 per cent virgin Creslan-acrylic with an extra-wide eight inch nylon binding. Its convertible fitted corners snap together for instant contour fitting. It is mothproof, non-allergenic, machine washable and its "Neva-Shed" finish resists pilling.

The "Ultima" blanket is packaged in its own gift box and, like all Fieldcrest bed and bath fashions, is available in a variety of colors to coordinate or complement any room decor.

Color TV To Be Prize

(Continued From Page One)
will receive a similar plaque.

Certificates of Merit will be presented by the Eden United Fund to each mill department and staff unit in which all employees give "Fair Share".

All pledges or cash contributions turned in by noon Tuesday, October 28, will be counted in determining winners of the prizes, plaques and certificates.

THE MILL WHISTLE

CHECK

YOUR FAIR SHARE

Pledge Today to

EDEN UNITED FUND

