

Above, left to right, Marty Murray wearing jumpsuit from Accent bedspread; Linda Christian, jumpsuit from Lazy Daisy Perfection sheet; Diane Carson, dress from Royal Velvet shower curtain; Missy Murray, jumpsuit from Perfection sheet. At right, above, Marty Murray and Diane Carson are shown at a display featuring the YSL bedspread.

In the picture at left, above, Missy Murray and Linda Christian, Flexowriter and Computyper operators, are shown at a Printwork display in the showroom. At right, above, are Marty

Murray, censoring and Flexowriter operator; Linda Christian; Hugh T. Bundy, manager of the Cleveland Service Center; Diane Carson, office supervisor; and Missy Murray.

Accountants Hold Panel Discussion At Morehead

The Piedmont Chapter of the National Association of Accountants presented an informal panel discussion for 35 Morehead High School seniors on the subject "Your Future in Finance and Accounting."

Ted L. Spencer, Fieldcrest's manager of office systems who is director of educational activities for the Piedmont chapter, was the moderator for the program. Five panel members participated, including James A. Stutts, manager of Tri-Cities Information Service.

Mr. Stutts discussed employment opportunities in the expanding field of data processing. A question-and-answer period followed the discussion.

MONDAY, APRIL 27, 1970

Fashion Festivities Liven Cleveland Service Center

On a cold day this past February, Diane Carson, Linda Christian and sisters, Marty and Missy Murray turned the Cleveland Service Center showroom into a Fieldcrest Fashion Festival.

With the wholehearted approval of center manager, Hugh Bundy, the girls came to work in the attractive outfits (pictured here) that they made at home out of Fieldcrest towels, bedspreads and sheets.

Taking her cue from the professionals, Diane led her group to prove they could be equally creative—which can be seen by the charming results.

Mixing a Fieldcrest palette of color, texture and design with the pattern of her choice each girl kept her work of art a secret at home. The element of surprise added to the fun the day Diane's mini and Linda, Missy and Marty's jumpsuits made their debut!

Salesmen and clients were truly inspired at seeing the fashions made out of Royal Velvet towels, Accent bedspreads and Perfection sheets.