

Community College Group Tours Karastan

Members of the advertising and display class at Rockingham Community College recently made a tour of the Karastan Rug Mill where they spent most of their time in the rug showroom and the designing department. They were accompanied by the instructor, Mrs. William O. Moser, of Eden.

Advertising and display is a new course for business majors at the college and the visit to Karastan was one of several field trips they have made to establishments in the county to observe operations related to their studies. The students previously had visited the Fieldcrest Store at Eden.

Mrs. Moser said the visit to Karastan was mainly to see the showroom and designing department and that the students were particularly interested in learning about trends in styling and design.
