

Blanket Whse. Wins Safety Barbecue

Employees of the Blanket Warehouse earned their second consecutive barbecue dinner under the terms of the Fieldcrest safety contest. In the contest, a dinner is awarded to the employees of any mill operating for an average of 2,000 hours per employee without a disabling injury.

Through June 1970, Blanket Warehouse employees had worked a total of 322,998 safe hours or an average of 4,141 hours per employee. The last lost-time accident occurred August 17, 1968.

The barbecue dinner, consisting of barbecue, slaw, hush puppies, coffee and cold drinks, was served to first shift employees at noon and to the second shift group at 6:30 p. m. Members of the supervisory staff and representatives of the Personnel Department were present and helped to serve the meal.

Mill officials expressed appreciation for the employees' cooperation in the safety program and Kenneth R. Baggett, safety director, wrote a letter congratulating the employees on their outstanding achievement.
