

At drawing for colored television set among Fair Share givers in United Fund campaign, Irene Grogan, of Blanket Finishing Mill, hands winning ticket to E. R. Ellis, Fieldcrest campaign chairman. Looking on, from left, are Robert Moyer, Blanket

Warehouse; Marvin Smith, Non-Woven Mill; William Bradley, Bedspread Mill; James Wilkinson, Blanket Mill; Virgie Cheek, Karastan Mill; Myrtle Shropshire, Bedspread Finishing; Rivers Bou ding, Sheet Finishing; and Mae Walker, Sheeting Mill.

Employees Receive Prizes In Eden United Fund Drawings

Donnie L. Matthews, of the Blanket Warehouse, was winner of the 23-inch screen colored television set given away in a drawing among the Fieldcrest Fair Share contributors in the Eden United Fund campaign.

The names of all employees, mill and staff, who pledged a Fair Share in the campaign, were included in the grand prize drawing.

Other drawings were held by mill divisions for a number of $15 gift certificates good for any purchase at the Fieldcrest Store. These were also drawn from among the names of employees who contributed on the Fair Share basis.

Winners of the certificates were:

Blanket Operation—Mildred C. Estes, Lewis Jeffries, Jerline Tinsley, John Hopper, Jr., Thomas S. Long, Jr., Alphonso Millner and Charlene Flinchum.

Sheet Operation—Ellis J. Henderson, Mary S. Rice, Mary F. Hairston and Justine H. Galloway.

Bedspread Operation—Judy C. Shelton, Lawrence Strange, Robert E. Thomas, Jr., and Raymond L. Stegall.

Karastan—James A. Smith, Jr., Debra F. Alcorn, Henry Lee Moyer, Jr., Martin W. Hyler and Genevieve Snyder.

Staff Departments—James B. O'Neal and Barbara Janney.

The drawings, held at the Fieldcrest Store November 4, were conducted by E. R. Ellis, general chairman of the United Fund campaign at Fieldcrest.

He was assisted by Jack Jarrett, of the Draper Personnel Office, and Jim Jones of the Auditing Department at the General Offices. Employees representing the various mills and staff departments participated in the drawings.

Fieldcrest Men Aid In Christmas Seals Campaign

Frank E. Barron, division vice president—bedspread manufacturing, is serving as a vice president and director of the Christmas Seals campaign for the Piedmont Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association. The association serves Rockingham, Guilford, Stokes and Caswell counties. Mr. Barron was chairman of last year's Christmas Seals campaign for the Rockingham-Caswell-Stokes Tuberculosis and Health Association and was president of the local association for two years.

Eugene Purcell, superintendent—piece dyeing at the Blanket Finishing Mill, is also an official of the Piedmont association, representing Rockingham county on the executive committee. Other members of the committee are: Crawford Hook of Caswell county, Nancy W. Gentry of Greensboro and Virginia Ryan of High Point.

The Christmas Seals campaign this year is staging an all-out effort to publicize the dangers of emphysema, the respiratory disease which every year claims the lives of 10,000 Americans.

Headed by Lee Kinard of the Channel

2 "Good Morning Show", the campaign has sponsored a caravan tour featuring two stars of CBS daytime drama and a benefit performance by the Glenn Miller orchestra under the direction of Buddy de Franco.

FRANK E. BARRON

EUGENE PURCELL