RCC Students Decorate Windows At Store

As a part of Fieldcrest's cooperation with Rockingham Community College, members of the advertising and display class at RCC recently prepared window displays which are now being shown at the Fieldcrest Store, Eden.

The advertising and display course at RCC is being taught by Mrs. William O. Moser, of Eden, and is a college parallel course.

For the displays, the students created their own designs, built the fixtures and installed the displays in the windows. Three students worked on each of the two windows. In a later part of the project in May, six more students will create displays to replace those now being shown.

Pets To Be Shown

Many people have pets which they value highly and are proud to show to others. There are probably some unusual pets owned by persons in the Fieldcrest organization.

Beginning soon, The Mill Whistle will have a new feature called "Pet Corner" which will carry pictures of employees and their pets or the children of employees with the pets.

If you want your pet shown in this series, send a clear, black and white, glossy photograph to The Mill Whistle along with descriptive information. Include information about where the employee works.
