Too Much Sun Can Be Harmful

up for protection. Use some kind of sun screening lotion to protect your skin and wear sunglasses to shield your eyes.

Some people think that white clothing is the best thing to wear on a sunny day because it reflects the sun. It does absorb less heat, but a thin, white garment, such as a child's T-shirt, is transparent to burning rays.

Another myth is that lipstick protects your lips from burn. Some tars and dyes used in lipstick may become harmful when exposed to ultraviolet light. If your lips become cracked and dry, use a lotion that screens it out.

If after sunning you find you're in real pain, if large blisters arise, or if you're nauseated and dizzy, call your physician. In severe cases sunburn may be accompanied by fever, chills, shock, and delirium. Occasionally badly sunburned persons must be hospitalized.

Enjoy the summer sun — but stay aware of its dangers.

Karastan Develops New 'Showcase' For Carpet

bility," he said. "They can be either used individually or grouped together for one large display or around pillars.

"The combination of four, each representing one of the basic life-styles being featured in Debut '72, is recommended as an excellent display concept for a store."

But even the department or furniture store with the facilities for room-set display can benefit from the flexibility of the showcase, it was noted.

"The carpet departments in these stores are often reduced in space during seasonal events such as Christmas and these portable display units can be excellent substitutes for the larger exhibits," Mr. Grulich commented.

The Karastan Debut '72 showcase is offered to Karastan dealers only. The unit without the carpet is priced at $125.00 each. It is packaged for shipping, but can be readily assembled in about 15 to 20 minutes.

The fixture is just one phase of the Debut '72 program being developed by Karastan for its dealers. Other features include an advertising and display idea kit and a new consumer booklet. Details of these will be announced shortly.

Telephone Manners Create Impression

else remember that to be helpful a telephone message must be complete. Write down the date, time, name and telephone number of the person calling.

If you must transfer a call, be sure the caller knows why he is being transferred and to whom. Also be sure that you are transferring the call to the proper person or department.

Keep personal calls to a minimum. You may very well be delaying an important business call with a personal call that could have been made at home.

It is elementary that you should identify yourself to the operator when you ask her to place a call. While regular operators learn to recognize many voices, a new or relief operator may not know your voice. So it is best to make it a habit to give your name at the time you place the call.

When calling someone at another location through the switchboard you can save the operator's time and often your own by asking for the location only. If the person you are calling is not in, the operator must come back to you to tell you this.

Often you may want to speak to someone else or find out when the party called will be in. In this instance the switchboard operator must again go through the operator at the other location to complete the call.

If you must leave your desk after asking the operator to place a call for you, be sure to let her know this so that she will be saved the embarrassment of completing your call only to find that you are no longer available.

Remember above all that telephone manners, like manners in any situation, are based primarily on consideration for the other person.
