Grant And Scholarship Recipients Honored

Fieldcrest employees' sons and daughters who have received grants-in-aid or scholarships from the Fieldcrest Foundation were honored by the company at a luncheon Monday at Meadow Greens Country Club.

Of the 140 young people currently enrolled in college with grants and scholarships from the Foundation, approximately 100 attended the luncheon, an event held each year prior to the students' departure for their various schools.

In addressing the group, William C. Battle, president of Fieldcrest Mills, Inc., said the need for a good education becomes greater with each generation. He said each generation is smarter than the one that preceded it and that it must be because of the demands made upon it.

"We admire and respect those who know who they are and what they want to be," Mr. Battle said. He congratulated all of the recipients and wished them well, and pointed out that nearly all of the beneficiaries of grants and

140 Employees' Children Receiving Educational Aid

The Fieldcrest Foundation since its beginning in 1960 has contributed $3,014,134 for aid to education and various charitable causes.

A total of 140 young people — sons and daughters of Fieldcrest employees — will be enrolled in colleges during the 1974-75 school year with the assistance of grants-in-aid and scholarships from the Fieldcrest Foundation.

Money contributed for grants-in-aid, Fieldcrest Scholarships and various campus scholarships totals $150,619 for the 1974-75 school year. Contributions for all purposes by the Foundation approved for 1974 total $302,900, of which approximately 50 percent is for grants and scholarships.

The above figures are highlights from a report prepared in connection with the luncheon August 12 honoring the recipients of grants-in-aid and Fieldcrest Scholarships.

In a change of direction, the Foundation is no longer giving to colleges or building funds outside the plant communities. Most of the Foundation contributions are being made in the communities where they will be of direct benefit to employees and their families.

The Foundation since its beginning has given 95 Fieldcrest Scholarships each currently worth $4,800 over the
