CARLENE WOOD shows how accident happened.

Employee At Foremost Is Grateful For Safety Glasses

Carlene Wood, a purchasing clerk at the Foremost Screen Print Plant, recently had an accident on the job which could have caused serious injury to one of her eyes had she not been wearing safety glasses.

She was pushing a carton into the storage area when her hand slipped on the door and it swung toward her, the knob hitting the lens of her glasses.

Had she been wearing regular glasses, she would have been badly cut by shattered glass.

The lens of the safety glasses did not break, but popped out of the frame.

Mrs. Wood says that she is certainly glad that she was wearing the safety glasses. "I hate to think what would have happened to my eye if I hadn't been wearing them," she said.
