

I, Helen Rust, do hereby bequeath to Dorothy Herring my book on "How to Win Husbands and Influence Men". To Aileen Hamilton I will my key to the pantry.

I, Rachel Sloan, do hereby bequeath my hair--do's to Cleo Osbourne and my winsome, come-hither ways with men to Beverly Barrier.

I, Jane Sheegog, do hereby bequeath my inveterate pride in "Rule Day" to Ada Wilson. To Jessie Lee Young I leave Daddy Long Legs.

I, Margaret Smith, do hereby bequeath to Betty Hanson my devotion to Charlotte and to a certain faculty member all the mail addressed to Margaret M. Smith.

I, Dorothy Siler, do hereby bequeath my spring hat (?) to Sarah Witherspoon. My dramatic talents I leave to Mabel Stone.

I, Virginia Sistare, do hereby bequeath my way with the sick to Janella Williams.

I, Justine Marte, do hereby bequeath the dimples in my chin to Martha Sue Sellers. My quiet ways I leave to Hattie Lee Penland.

I, Mary Leslie Thomas, do hereby bequeath my lung power to Virginia Ford and my unique gestures to Carolyn McLean.

I, Carolyn Tyree, do hereby bequeath my sunny disposition to Estelle Frisbee and my snapshots of Clarence to Doris Webster.

I, Peggy Weed, do hereby bequeath a number of "little black bores" to Virginia Outlaw. To Mary Claire Allen I leave "Josephine".

I, Eloise Williams, do hereby bequeath three inches of my height to Jean Bourk. To Sadie Bryson goes my place in the heart of a certain Glen-son Cadet.

I, Martha Williamson, do hereby bequeath my appetite and nickname "Butterball" to Mary Frances Grant and to Mary Shaw McDiarmid my unofficial position as classroom assistant.

I, Edith Arey Wamble, do hereby bequeath my unsurpassable speed at all times to Katherine Ambrister. My private baseball diamond I will to whoever occupies my room next year.

I, Eleanor Woodruff, do hereby bequeath my uncanny knack in Chemistry to Mary Forbes. To Josephine Martin I leave my athletic ability.

I, Jean Whitaker, do hereby bequeath my job of furnishing odds and ends to the faculty to Lockey Burgin and Helen Burnette.

I, Louise Vernon, do hereby bequeath my speed in typing to Launa Houston.

This last will and testament has been duly drawn up and signed before suitable witnesses.

I. M. Crazy, Witness

U. R. Too, Witness

--Isabelle Carter, Lawyer

--Jessie Carmichael, Lawyer

STATISTICS

Beauty -----	Alice Davis
Ideal -----	Sara Drew
Studiousness---	Bernice Butler
Sports -----	Jessie Carmichael
Originality----	Gladys Modlin
Versatility--	Margaret Niblock
Friendliness-----	Jane Sheegog
Wit-----	Joy Juniper
Popularity -----	Leslie Thomas
Dignity -----	Helen Hardie
Intelligence-----	Hilda Grant
Dependability -----	Ann Acree
Style -----	Hassie Swift
Courtesy -----	Bashie Chastain
Neatness -----	Both Bagby