Judy James and her mother stood looking at a dentist's showcase. "If I had to have false teeth, Mother, I'd take that pair," said Judy pointing. "Hust Judy," interposed the Mother quickly, shaking her arm, "Haven't I told you it's bad manners to pick your teeth in public?"

EDITORIAL

Another year has come. As we think of the new year, we realize that before us are three hundred and sixty-five days. Each day is a precious possession. When once spent, it can never be regained. Perhaps these days will not be spent in just the way we should wish. Perhaps, for some of us, they will be filled with the greatest joy and happiness we have ever known. Largely they will be what we make them.

May we not begin this new year, 1941, resolving to make it a worthwhile year in our lives? May we not try to make it also a worth-while year for all those with whom we come in contact? Who knows what it will bring? Perhaps there will be new scientific discoveries of value to all mankind. Perhaps, new personalities will come to the forefront to greatly influence world affairs. Perhaps, some of those in our very midst will play a part in making new history on the stage that is the world. No one knows what 1941 will bring. We can only prophecy; we can only hope.

Another year has come--1941. Ring out the old, ring in the new! And each of us can have a part in making it a good year, a happy year, a peaceful year for all mankind.

ing and shining highway. We welcome the beauty of an unscarred path; we welcome the inspiration it gives; we welcome the opportunity it offers to keep it unmarred; welcome the chance to make it lead to fine destinations. We welcome 1941!
