Don't forget to mark February 22, 1941, on your calendar as a "must remember date". If you want to be more specific say: "Be sure and fix the costume or evening dress for the George Washington party at the Inn at 8 p.m."

The largest natural bridge in the world is the Rainbow Arch in Utah which spans Bridge Canyon the north slope of Navajo mountain.

The other day someone was over-heard to say, "It is just that January feeling!" After the tenseness of exams, and the all too short period that followed in which everyone got a chance for some much needed rest, the routine of second semester began. It is awfully easy to really get in the "mid-winter" slump, and so here is a piece of advice set down by Henry Van Dyke that will be valuable if you think it through before you decide definitely just how you'll spend the next few months.

"To be glad of life, because it gives you the chance to love and to work and to play and to look up at the stars; to be satisfied with your possessions, but not contented with yourself until you have made the best of them; to despise nothing in the world except falsehood and meanness, and to fear nothing except cowardice; to be governed by your affections rather than by your disgusts; to covet nothing that is your neighbor's except his kindness of heart and gentleness of manners; to think seldom of your enemies; often of your friends and every day of Christ; and to spend as much time as you can with body and with spirit, in God's out-of-doors --these are little guide-posts on the foot-path to peace."

Woodman, spare that tree!
 Touch not a single bough;
 In youth it sheltered me,
 And I'll protect it now.
 'Twas my father's hand
 That placed it near his cot;
 There, woodman, let it stand,
 Thy axe shall harm it not.
