

The Dial

Vol. XI No. 3

MONTREAT COLLEGE

October, 1942

CLASSES TO HAVE PARTIES 31ST

MITCHELL TRIP MADE

This year's pilgrimage to Mt. Mitchell, highest point east of the Rockies, was finally made on Friday, after the plans for going on Monday were upset by rain. The three truck-loads of tired but happy mountain-climbers returned in the evening with a unanimous declaration from everyone that the day had been well worth waiting for.

Lunch was eaten before the climb to the top. The bill-of-fare was typical picnic grub--ham, date spread, and tomato sandwiches; hard boiled eggs; pork and beans; apples; chocolate candy; cold drinks.

The view was excellent, and among the many cameras that were flourished there should come some quite creditable snapshots.

*O*O*

SCRAP DRIVE IN MONTREAT

Through-out all America, patriotic people are collecting scrap-iron for defense, and it is a real joy to see that we have some of that same spirit here in Montreat. It gave me a real thrill to hear one of the girls say, "It certainly is raining, but the war goes on, and we must do our part." Come on girls! Let's get that scrap-iron. It is this same spirit that will keep our America "the land of the free and home of the brave."

(Continued on page 3)

Pumpkins, black cats, and ghosts will be the general theme of Saturday night the 31st when Montreat girls will get their share of thrills and chills at the Hallowe'en parties sponsored by each class. The night will be a black and very effective background for the "ha'nts", who lurk in deep shadowy places and provide that creepy atmosphere that makes Hallowe'en so much fun.

Dressing in grotesque costumes is one feature of the evening that appeals very strongly to the sense of the ludicrous in everyone. Thus, it will be a motley crowd that gathers around the fortune-teller's booth, the apple-bobbing tub, or in a ghost-story-telling circle. Games, refreshments, and decorations, committees are at work in each class with their plans for making the parties a time of fun and frivolity.

Senior College class party will be in the Home Economics Lab., and Freshman College Class will convene at the Recreational Hall for its Hallowe'en capers. The High School will meet as follows: Senior High in Fellowship Lobby; Junior High in College Hall Lobby; Sophomore High in Gaither Room 4; Freshman High in Anderson Chapel.

SATURDAY NIGHT ENTERTAINMENT

The entertainment for tonight features a separate program for College and High School. Miss Rachel Hassell will give a musicale for High School in the Lobby of Fellowship. Folk dancing in Anderson has been planned for the College girls.