

CAMPUS CLIPPINGS

The anti-Communist struggle between the polished and the unpolished in dress is again raging, and right now with the steady support of the rain and his accompanying conditions, the unpolished seem to have the upper hand. But have no fear girls. Cleo Sol will be back in town again to those hills and when he does you can drag out your heels and give 'em who is next. (Note: the very latest in saddles seem to be red roses with green vines painted on both heel and toe.

If the colored shoestring fad hangs on long enough, the fashion critics will be forced to admit that solid red shoestrings with a baby pink skirt is very good taste!!

If, upon reaching the dining room in that last split second, you should see the printed gingham counter of a bargain basement passing by, you might be interested to know that you are not out of your right mind. If you will take a quick second look, you will gaze upon what is known as a Victory Skirt and very cute too!!

Enough for the clothes--and now to see what the gals that wear them have been doing. -----

Elizabeth Ogburn, Helen Minner, Kathleen Pleasants, Irene Farmer, Charlotte Ray, Polly Patrick, Nancy Nichols, Mary Cain Blair, and Mary Neal Oliver helped hold down the social end by journeying home for a week-end.

Lil Callaway and Ruth Ewert are the lucky girls! They boasted dates not so long ago.

Maggie Baker's Joe came calling unexpectedly one night, so Little Baker returned the visit last week-end. She not only had a swell time in Camden, but also brought her mother back with her. (Some people can have their cake and eat it too.)

If one will note the lack of stamps on the Northwest mail it is easy to see that the girls are doing their part to keep up the morale of the fighting-forces. Keeping 'em writing, girls!!!

The meetings met, as usual, and as a result of their meeting, the Student Congress has increased its membership by three. Those to be congratulated in the senior class are Virginia Abernathy and Lucie Fryer Gillespie--from the Freshman Class, Yolanda Jennings. The Sen. Dial Staff gained the valuable assistance of Penny Miller and Evelyn Taylor-Tanner from the Senior and Freshman classes respectively.

Fremie French just breezed in to tell us she was doing her washing for the first time. Why Fremie! yours truly always thought you were the domestic type.

Congratulations to Betty Morrison, who celebrated her sixteenth birthday October 12th. Sweet sixteen and er-a-well let's just say Sweet Sixteen!

Mail! Mail! Jean Swingley received about sixteen letters Monday. Imagine!.

We could never stop without a little humor and this edition's best seems to be a little conversation in Senior English between Norma Campbell and Miss Watkins:

Miss Watkins: "Norma you'd better stop dreaming and pay attention."

Norma: "I wasn't dreaming, Miss Watkins, I was looking at you." (The expression was perfect and the whole class including Miss Watkins just roared.
