CIVIC MUSIC CONCERT

On November 2, 1942, thirty girls and some teachers set out for Asheville to attend the first of the Civic Music Concert programs. Because of the transportation problems, fewer tickets were sold this year than before, and cars are being used in place of a chartered bus.

Artur Rubinstein, Pianist, was the artist. Mr. Rubinstein is quite widely known and has traveled extensively, giving programs enjoyed by all. This is his seventh year of touring in the United States.

The programs to follow on the Series are: December 7--Dusoline Giannini, Soprano, of the Metropolitan Opera Company; February 7--National Symphony Orchestra from Washington, C. C.; February 19--An opera, "The Bat" by Richard Strauss; presented by the Philadelphia Opera Company. There will be another concert, to be announced later.

"Dr. Robert Gummerman visited Hillsville High School and entertained his audience very skillfully by the account of his thrilling adventures on the bottom of the sea." The Trumpet--Hillsville, Va.

"To stay in step with war-time, calls for skilled workers in many fields, the industrial education department has made many changes this year, perhaps the most notable being the opening of classes especially designed to prepare girls to take the places of men who go into the armed forces. F.S.H.S. girls are now taking woodworking, developing the necessary skill to enable them to enter glider plants, airplane factories and other war industries.

Ft. Smith Grizzly--Ft. Smith, Ark.

"During the first week of school, all College students had the privilege of taking a series of psychology tests, for the first time in the College's history. These tests were administered by Dr. D.J. Moffie, acting head of the department of psychology, at N. C. State College, as a part of the orientation program.

Gardner--Webb College

"Girls are urged to prepare for printing jobs. Girls who have not decided what active part they will play in the war effort should consider the possibilities of working in the printing trade---an essential part of our war program."
