

MAY QUEEN CHOSEN

room, they began a little experimenting with potassium. The disastrous result was a beige coat getting burned. And then there was the time she helped put Limburger cheese on the radiator in the classroom and was brought up before the student council.

On the other side of the picture, we see she was in the Azalea Festival two years and was one of the attendants one year. Betty Blue graduated from Montreat at the same time she finished her Freshman year of college.

The lovely young lady who is to be the Maid of Honor in our May Court soon moved from Panhandle, to North Carolina and the first few years of her life were spent in Red Springs, N. C. Helen had the beginning of the training for the part she is to play in the May Festival at Red Springs. At the ripe age of three years, she was crown-bearer there and, instead of walking sedately up to the platform with the queen she ran ahead of all the rest, and seating herself, calmly awaited the approach of the rest of the court. Even then she was climbing to the heights. By way of illustration, she climbed up to the top of the school building on being told by a young friend that there were jewels up there. Helen also won second prize in the beauty contest which was to pick one of the girls from whom "Miss Individual" of North Carolina was to be chosen.

Both of the girls are now attending the second year at Montreat and both are planning to attend the University of North Carolina later.

I have been wondering a long, long time

Why it is (this is going to rime,

Regardless), why it is that when

Other people have a leaky fountain pen

It merely leaks, whereas, and on

The other hand, when I have one,

It doesn't keep up a steady

And dignified flow, but is always ready

With an astonishing repertoire of

squirts,

Bubbles, and offensively garrulous

spurts:

To cure this there is only one sure way:

Go out and throw the blasted thing away!
