Cuts for the previous Thursday and Friday will count single, while those taken on the Wednesday previous and Tuesday following the weekend will count double.

The weekend of March 20 will be a closed weekend, which means that no students spend this weekend off the campus.

STAFF WELCOMES MILLER BACK

At a meeting of the student body last week, Elizabeth Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Miller, of Raphine, Virginia, was elected editor-in-chief of the Staff of Student Publications, '48-'49. Having had a high school course in journalism and having been literary editor of the Staff last year, "Lib," as she is known to all of us, is well qualified to fill this position.

At present Lib is vice president of the college Christian Youth Fellowship and president of the Lydian Club. She is majoring in Bible and minoring in business, and plans to be a DRE or church secretary.

CHANDLER WILL BE H. S. ASSOCIATE EDITOR

Louise Chandler will serve as Associate Editor on the Staff of Student Publications for the forthcoming year, '48 and '49. She will also be on the High School Cabinet, since that organization has ruled that the Staff be permitted to have a representative.

This will make Louise's third year on the staff. She was sophomore class representative during her first year, and club editor this year. Besides this experience, she has also worked on her high school newspaper at home in Marietta, Georgia.

Louise has dreams of being a lawyer and plans to go on to college after she finishes high school here next year.

Dr. Mitchell . . . Montreat Sage

By Cordie Hilton

"Montreat College will grow, because it has some of the finest assets a school can possess. The healthful climate, spiritual atmosphere, capable and sympathetic instructors—these are only a few of the things which will cause it to become outstanding."

This, from one of America's leading educators, is worthy of pride.

There is an understanding of life's great principles, made more valuable because he has observed so much of life.

He was born on a flight to Mississippi during the Civil War. His father, thinking Virginia unsafe, sent his wife there to escape danger. On the way, she gave birth to a son whom she called Samuel.

In his boyhood, the family returned to Richmond where he has spent most of his life. From 1895 until 1945 when he retired, he was connected with the University of Richmond, part of the time as an instructor, the rest as a member of the Board of Trustees. Dr. Mitchell served as President of the University of South Carolina from 1908 to 1913. That year he became President of the Medical College of Virginia, accepting the position chiefly as a mediator between several factions in the school. From there he went, in 1914, to the University of Delaware where he was President until 1920.

One year he spent as an exchange professor at Rhode Island's Brown University, and it was in speaking of this that he mentioned his "Sabbatic Year". He explained that he has always attempted to use every seventh year as a period of rest and
