

Foreign Students Enroll

We've all just about gotten used to the excited chatter of the Cuban girls, but I wonder if we've noticed that two new countries are being represented on the Montreat campus this year? They are Puerto and Korea.

Herenia Morales, from Mayaguez, Puerto Rico, was the first of these two to arrive. Since we couldn't twist our tongues just exactly the right way without some real effort, we soon were calling her "Here."

"Here" spent nine months in New York where she met her good friend, Ester Arce, who is now here in school. Ester, already having become a good Montreater, persuaded "Here" to come to Montreat to school instead of going to school in New York, as she had originally planned.

"Here" attended the Polytechnic Institute of Puerto Rico for her first two college years and is now a Montreat Junior. She plans to major in English and teach in Puerto Rico. "If," she adds, "I don't get married first."

Annie An, from Korea, arrived in Montreat only a short while ago. At the completion of her voyage, Annie set foot on American soil for the first time.

She says she has had no trouble becoming a good Montreat girl as we are no different from her. When asked what she thought of Montreat, Annie replied, "I like the place."

Annie learned about Montreat from an American Army officer who became a friend of her soldier-father, also in the American Army during the war. He became her sponsor and helped us to get another good Montreat girl.

Crawford and Martin Fill Important Vacancies

This year we have had several changes in our student government. We regret that some of our friends did not return, but we are confident that our new officers will be competent, conscientious, and cooperative. Our Student Body officers are President, Barbara Crawford; Vice-President, Lida Martin.

We have also elected some new officers in the classes. The senior Class officers are President, Jean Courreges; Vice-President, Barbara Gladstone; Secretary, Jean Hart; Treasurer, Mary Louise Gue; Junior Class President, Hope Weideman; Sophomore Class President, Dorothy Holcomb.

Annie is a Junior in High School and, like many of us, isn't sure what she is going to do when she gets out of school. I am sure that her language will not handicap her when she chooses her life work, for she speaks and understands English beautifully, even though she has had only two years of English in school.

To these two girls and to our Cuban friends, Ester Arce, Teresa Balboa, Judith Balboa, Rica Crespin, Yolanda Perez, Margarita Orozco, Ena Yedra, Georgina Andino, Mirta Borges, Gloria Diaz, Silvia Sanchez, Lilia Espinosa, Lydia Flores, Connie Robledo, and Olga Valdez, we extend a hearty welcome. We know that you love Montreat as much as we do.

Freshmen Choose Betty Marshall

Classes Pick Sponsors For Year

That interesting and quite important class the Freshmen, has had its first meeting and elected officers. These are Betty Marshall, president; Betty Bright, vice-president; Willodeen Smith, secretary; and Martha Holman, treasurer. The Freshman sponsor is Miss Carolyn Fields. According to Montreat tradition, the Thanksgiving banquet is the privilege and responsibility of the Freshman. Therefore, it was a topic of discussion.

The Sophomore Class, whose sponsor is Miss Boardman, is starting the year off right by planning a party for the Seniors the Monday after Halloween. The president, Jane Holt, presided at the class's first meeting of the year. The new Sophomore officers are Virginia Crowder, vice-president; Jean Tussy, secretary; and Cordie Hylton, treasurer.

Already concerned about the all-important Junior-Senior Banquet, the Junior Class discussed ways of making money. Since last year's Junior Class was quite successful in its Christmas-card venture, the Juniors decided in favor of a similar program and, incidentally, to use window-cleaning only as a last resort! Miss Steading was chosen sponsor. Class officers are Eleanor Enloe, president; Betty Attwood, vice-president; Mary B. Dunbar, secretary; and Algene Draper, treasurer.

The Senior Class, which has chosen Miss Hoyt as its sponsor every year, including this one, since its members were Freshmen, met and elected officers. The president, elected last year, is Lucille Vaught. New officers are Anne McClintock, vice-president, and Pat Cox, secretary-treasurer.

MRS. QUILLEN SKETCHES

tracted to write six paragraphs and a daily editorial which was syndicated several years later.

During his career, Mr. Quillen has had many honors. About 15 years ago, George Marshall, the director of "Taproot" and Lamar Trotti wrote the scenario, "The Country Editor," with Will Rogers playing the lead as Robert Quillen. Alexander Woolcott chose him as one of his 20 favorite Americans in a series of broadcasts.

Besides his syndicated columns, Mr. Quillen writes two daily features, "Willie Willis" and "Aunt Het." "Willie Willis" was once translated into Dutch as "Pemmie Pimmel"! He methodically keeps well ahead with his work—six weeks ahead on "Willie Willis," three months on "Aunt Het," and two weeks on his editorials.

Roy Anderson Vietctum, Mr. Quillen's illustrator, made an oil painting of Aunt Het which hangs in the library. The columnist values it so highly that we jokingly instructed the Fire Department in case of a fire to save "Aunt Het" first!

As to personal appearance and taste, Mr. Quillen is quiet. He wears conservative clothes, is a Baptist and a Rotarian, and likes plain food such as steak, potatoes, and apple pie. His literary taste leans toward the classical, historical, and biographical.

In addition to columnizing, Mr. Quillen has written several books, two of which are "The Path Wharton Found" and "One Man's Religion," MacMillan and Co.
