

Miss McGaughey To Give Commencement Address

Dr. Charles G. McClure, Charlotte Minister,
Will Deliver Baccalaureate Sermon Sunday

Kane To Be Editor

H. S. To Publish Own Newspaper

At a recent meeting of the Editors and advisors it was decided that for the best interests of the College and High School, each school would have separate newspapers.

A trial issue of the High School paper will come out May 21st. A contest was put on to pick a name which will be announced with the first issue. The new staff elected this year is Terry Kane, Editor-in-Chief; Lee Brewer, Business Manager; Lucille Black, Associate Editor; and Martha Dabney, Art Editor.

The rest of the staff will be appointed at the beginning of next year. In order to avoid too much competition, ads will not be solicited from Black Mountain and the paper will be financed in other ways.

Juniors Lead Seniors Through Centuries In Banquet Program

On May 7, which fell on Saturday evening, about five and fifty persons gathered together in the dining room of Assembly Inn to honor the end of college days for thirteen of those present, and also to celebrate the passage of a few more (we hope) into the honored state of seniorhood. This affair, known as the Junior-Senior Banquet, was slightly different from those held in previous years — young men guests were not excluded.

After the Invocation by Dr. McGregor, the Welcome and Response were given by the Junior and Senior class presidents, Eleanor Enloe and Lucille Vaught, respectively.

The theme of the Banquet was "Gold For The Forty-Niners," be-

H. S. Seniors Starred In Modern Comedy

The Senior High School class presented their annual senior production, "You're Young Only Twice," a three act comedy by Joseph Spalding, April 30.

The scene was laid in a sorority house on a State University Campus during a summer session. The plot involves a scheme to evict a returned alumna who has endangered the summer's fun by being made guardian of the campus hero. The plot backfired and the alumna won worthy respect and married the boy's father.

Characters in the play were: Mrs. Trigg, Jean Stephens; Sophie, Barbara Gladstone; Libby Frohman, Gerry Hoffman; Helen Hunter, Jane Norman; Beatrice Newman, Martha Brown; Avis Laurel, Bitsy Phillips; Irene Pratt, Elizabeth Wilson; Dorothy Randolph, Mary Lou Gue; Miss Aratha Dunning, Lilly Starling; Van Wych Waterhouse, Bradie Cox; Emil de Suto, Lida Martin; Stubby Holcomb, Kaye Lowery; Chester Pearson, Ophelia Williams; Lowell Cooper, Barbara Crawford; and Van Wych Waterhouse, Sr., Jean Courreges.

The play was directed by Dr. Fronde Kennedy, and property managers were Cindy Waddell and Charlotte Hisle. Mrs. McGregor and Miss Bell are the Senior Class Sponsors.

College Seniors Will Present "THE RIVALS"

"Bob, a country bumpkin, is a rival of the handsome Captain Absolute for the hand of Lydia. Mrs. Malaprop objects to the affair because Captain Absolute has presented himself to Lydia as a mere ensign, hoping she will love him for himself alone, (and Lydia does!). Meanwhile, Mrs. Malaprop has been having a love affair with an unknown admirer, one Sir Lucius O'Trigger, who supposes Mrs. Malaprop is a delectable

As Montreat celebrates its third graduation day since becoming a senior college, speakers, worthy of the occasion, will be on the campus for the exercises.

The Rev. Charles G. McClure, D. D., pastor of the Caldwell Memorial Presbyterian Church in Charlotte, N. C., will preach the Baccalaureate sermon on Sunday morning. Dr. McClure was born in Georgia, but went to the University of Tennessee to work for his A. B. degree. He is a graduate of Columbia Theological Seminary in Decatur, Georgia and was granted his Doctor of Divinity degree by King College in 1946.

creature named Delia. The plot builds through one side-splitting situation after another, up to the uproariously funny duel scene, where all is explained and forgiven."

This is the review of THE RIVALS by Richard Sheridan to be presented by the Senior College Class on May 21, at 8:00 P. M. Really, though, this is mild compared with the play itself, for it is a scream from beginning to end. There is Mrs. Malaprop with her misapplied words, Bob Acres with his red hair and bowed legs, and scene after scene which will keep you in stitches.

Characters are Mrs. Malaprop, Lucille Vaught; Lydia, Anne McClintock; Captain Absolute, Pat Cox; Julia, Elizabeth Miller; Faulkland, Vickie Samburg; Fag, Mildred Jones; Sir Anthony Absolute, Carey Lee Pratt; Sir Lucius O'Trigger, Polly Hagan; Thomas, the coachman, and the chambermaid, Silvia Sanchez; Squire Bob Acres, Edie McMullen; David, Betty Whittle; and Lucy, Virginia Wood.

The evening will prove to be one of mirth and entertainment for everyone!

Miss Janie McGaughey, Secretary of Woman's Work in the General Assembly, will speak to the student body and especially to the graduating class on Monday morning. Miss McGaughey received her A. B. degree from Agnes Scott College and did graduate work at the Biblical Seminary in New York. Since then she has taught in several girls' colleges. Her experience makes her well qualified to give a graduation message to the seniors at Montreat. She received an Honorary Doctor of Religious Education degree from Southwestern in Memphis, Tennessee, in 1942. Miss McGaughey has also written several books in addition to her activities in the Presbyterian Church.

The Baccalaureate sermon will be preached Sunday morning, May 22, at 10:45 o'clock in Anderson Auditorium. The Commencement exercises will be held at the same place Monday morning at ten. There are twelve graduates from the College and twenty from the High School.

Faculty Announces Class Marshals

The faculty has elected two marshals from each class to lead the choir, faculty, and classes in marching at Commencement. These girls are chosen for scholastic ability, character, and marching ability.
