Honor Pledge Signed In Student Body Meeting

By Genevieve Landrum

The Student Body participated in the pledge signing service on Thursday, November 4, in Gaither Chapel. The chapel was lit only with candles; and Cabinet members with candles stood at the end of the front benches, showing the different classes where they were to sit.

Louise Bennett opened the service with a devotional, after which Evelyn Morris spoke on the signing of the pledge as a matter of personal honor. She pointed out that in signing this pledge the student gave her word to uphold the honor system and the standards of Montreat College. At the close of Evelyn's talk, a small group of the girls sang "Lord, I Want to Be A Christian in My Heart."

The girls left the chapel according to classes and went to certain rooms, where they signed the pledge, after reading it aloud. Then they returned to the chapel for the remainder of the service.

The service closed with a hymn, a prayer, and the singing of the Alma Mater.

Annual Thanksgiving Festivities Are Held

Thanksgiving Day at Montreat is always an event to remember, and the 1954 holiday was no exception. The customs of Thanksgiving were followed in a lovely fashion, so that each person was inspired by the occasion.

The annual banquet was the high point of Turkey Day festivities. The Senior class decorations followed the traditional theme of autumn and transformed the cafeteria completely.

The program was begun by Senior class president Margaret Barrett, who welcomed students, faculty and guests, followed by Rev. Stanley Bennett with the invocation. Entertainment was provided by a choir group who sang several numbers. Dr. J. R. McGregor, college president, presented several prominent guests and introduced the main speaker of the evening, Miss Joan Winmill.

Miss Winmill said that England was quite grateful to America for many things, but that the evangelistic crusade conducted by Dr. Billy Graham and his team was by far the most wonderful thing we have ever given them. Miss Winmill told how she had worked for and achieved success as an actress, only to find that there was something lacking in her life, something which fame didn't bring. It was only when she took the Lord Jesus into her heart and dedicated her life to Him, during the London crusade, that she found this peace and joy for which she had longed, she told us.

The testimony of Miss Winmill's exper-
