

Dialette

VOL. 21, NO. 3.

MONTREAT COLLEGE, MONTREAT, NORTH CAROLINA

DECEMBER, 1955

114 Shopping Days 'Till May Day

MORTALS BECOME ANGELS

by Corenia Smithson

Senior Superlatives

by Corenia Smithson

For days students had been going to classes unprepared because of continuous interruptions during study period.

Every student was asking the same question, "Who got it", and always there was the same answer, "We have to vote again."

Finally, that long awaited moment came when would be known the outcome of our votes. There was a stir of excitement through the student body, then a hushed expectancy. Then THEY were announced.

In the SUN DIAL each year there are four Superlatives who are chosen from the Senior Class. The following verse is the basis for the title of each Superlative.

"And Jesus increased in wisdom, and stature, and in favor with God and man."

Kathy Rash, who is from Glade Valley, North Carolina, has been chosen as a student who finds Joy in Learning. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Rash.

"Sportsmanship" is represented by Betty Raye Mobley. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mobley of Chester, South Carolina.

Mary Frances Luke was chosen to represent True Spiritual Vision. Dr. and Mrs. John Luke are her parents. They are from Glendale Springs, North Carolina.

Mrs. Garlene Stutts has been chosen for Graciousness. She is from Lincolnton, North Carolina. Garlene is the daughter of Mrs. Garlene Seagle.

by Ann Sharpe

Are you the type of person who loves and longs for the mysterious side of life? Do you ever feel like putting on a "Trench" coat and playing "Sandra Spade"? If so, then this passing week of playing "Angels and Mortals" has been an exciting one to you.

However, I hope that you're not the "party pooper" type of mortal who has already found out who her angel is. If you are, then thumbs down to you.

Did someone timidly knock on your door at an inconvenient time, but hearing your sweet feminine voice scream "come", whisk away down the hall so fast that you caught only a glimpse of crooked wings? No guess work about it, that was your chief clothes presser, sock washer, and supplier of goodies for the week or, in more familiar terminology, it was your angel.

Who minds that tiny scorched place on a white blouse, or what harm does a few extra thousand calories do? They all come because of the goodness of your angel's heart.

Most of you mortals have been pretty obliging. Certainly you didn't want your angel to grow lazy, so you felt it your "mortal" duty to keep her supplied with such insignificant tasks as mopping your floor, changing your bed linens, washing your rugs, and cleaning your bathroom, ad infinitum.

If complete strangers (people from the other dorm) have been visiting you, bringing some token of friendship, don't get any sneaking suspicions. These girls were just on errands of mercy, helping your angel with her duties.

In closing, girls, if you come home at some inopportune time of the day and

—Turn to Page 4

Whan that Aprille with his shoures sote
The droughte of Marche hath perced to the rote,
Then May Day presents her beauties chosen,
In mid of winter whan that voters were frozen.

Montreat's May Court has been chosen. Eleanor Seagle was elected May Queen and Ann Woody was elected Maid of Honor.

Miss Eleanor Seagle is the daughter of Mrs. Garlene Seagle. She is from Lincolnton, North Carolina. She has been on the S.C.A. Council, Chairman of Foreign Mission and Christian Education, Chairman and Secretary of the Red Cross, a member of the Chorus, and President of the Senior Class. When our Queen was a sophomore she was elected Miss Witch.

Ann Woody is from Atlanta, Georgia. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Woody. Last year she attended Young Harris College, Young Harris, Georgia. There she was in the choir and on the newspaper and annual staff. She was also elected to be on the '55-'56 S.C.A. Council.

The May Court representatives are:

"Loveable" J. Lou from the Freshman Class. Miss Janet Louise Dedrick is from Staunton, Virginia, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Dedrick. She is a member of the French Club. When she was notified that she was the Freshman Representative, she could only cry.

For the Sophomores: was "Precious" Janet. Miss Janet Smith is from Glasgow, Kentucky. She is the daughter of Mrs. J. W. Smith. Jan is the chairman of the Birthday Committee, a member of Los Amigos, Thaliens, and the Chorus. Her statement when she was elected was, "Me of all people—I can't believe it."

—Turn to Page 4