Students Hike To Mitchell

Twenty-five gabbing girls, two jaunty boys, and Dr. Snyder left the lobby of Howerton Hall at 11:30 sharp, Tuesday, October 13. Destination: Mount Mitchell. Mode of motivation: feet. Results: twenty-five gabbing girls, and two bedraggled boys. (Dr. Snyder, upon reaching the falls, decided on the advisability of returning from whence he came . . . Howerton lobby.)

After much scrambling and climbing, to say nothing of fording streams and shining up trees, the energetic bunch of Montreaters reached the Graybeard Waterfalls . . . the place designated for lunch. Feeling much better after eating something more substantial than chocolate bars, the group merrily wended their way to the parkway, via the top of a mountain! Less merrily than before they groped their way through the fog and rain which seemed to persist. Yet, with the determination of soldiers out to win a battle, they plodded on.

Finally the top was reached. A few ran, more walked, some even crawled, but most rode the last remaining mile. However, the reward was great, for food awaited the conquerers. Devouring it quickly, the tired but happy bunch (twenty-five gabbing girls, two fagged-out boys, and one harassed bus-driver) boarded the bus and headed back for Montreat College. A successful day . . . even for those who rode all the way and were there to meet the hikers.

Eleven Girls Awarded Scholarships

The Living Endowment Fund was originated in 1958 for the purpose of underwriting the Self-Help Scholarship program. In the first year thirty-six students were awarded scholarships. Co-ordinator for the Living Endowment Fund is Miss Elizabeth Hoyt.

This year two of the Living Endowment Fund's Self-Help Scholarships were named in honor of faculty members who have rendered long terms of service to the college: Miss Helen Miles, who served on the faculty for a period of thirty years, and Miss Zoulean Anderson, who served a period of sixteen years.

This program is a wonderful way in which the Montreat College Alumni have the opportunity of increasing the success of this our college, Montreat Junior College.

The Montreat Presbyterian Church is very fortunate to have secured the services of Dr. Arthur S. Fogartie. He succeeds the Rev. Stanley Bennett, who left Montreat this past August to do mission work in Brazil.

Dr. Fogartie comes from a "preaching family", his father being a minister, as well as his son James, pastor of the Myers Park Presbyterian Church in Charlotte, North Carolina. Dr. and Mrs. Fogartie, the former Eugenia Vance, also have a daughter who resides in Corpus Christi, Texas.

A graduate of the Louisville Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky, Dr. Fogartie will assume his duties Sunday, October 28.

Dr. C. Grier Davis, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Asheville, has accepted the call to become president of the Mountain Retreat Association. Dr. Davis, a longtime trustee and director of Montreat affairs, is the third man to hold the office of president in the history of the college. His predecessors were Dr. R. C. Anderson and Dr. J. R. McGregor. Since Dr. McGregor's resignation in 1957, Dr. F. L. Jackson of Davidson, North Carolina, has served as acting president.

A native of Arkansas, Dr. Davis is a graduate of Davidson College and Union Seminary, Richmond, Virginia. He has studied at both Hendricks College and Princeton Seminary, and holds honorary doctorates from Davidson and Tusculum Colleges.

Since 1938, he has served the First Church in Asheville, holding previous pastorates in Richmond and Norfolk, Virginia.

His wife is the former Rebecca McDowell of York, South Carolina. They have two sons: Calvin Grier, Jr., and James McDowell.

We are looking forward to Dr. Davis' being with us at Montreat around November 1.
