

Powell Considered Asset

To one who definitely has taken Montreat to his heart, and has adapted himself to the environment with hardly any change in his personal life. To one who understands others, and sincerely tries to develop his abilities to the greatest capacity. To one who is devoted to Christian service and brings happiness to others around him—we proudly name Frank Powell the student of the month.

Frank is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claren Powell of Red Springs, North Carolina. He has a younger brother, Bobby, who is still in high school. Upon his graduation from Red Springs High school, Frank obtained one of the highest honors bestowed on a high school senior.

He has already proved his ability as a leader by the excellent work he is doing on the Student Christian Association Council. He is a member of the Montreat Singers; he did one of the tenor solo roles in the Christmas pageant. In addition to his classes Frank has a 14 hour work scholarship in the Montreat library. His "Boss", Miss Virginia Buchanan, had this to say about Frank: "Frank is courteous and gentlemanly. He manifests ability to perform the great variety of library routines which he has been assigned. It is an asset to the library program to have Frank among the library assistants".

Frank's favorite hobby is singing, and he is often seen in the "rec hall" singing with "you know who" at the piano. Another of his hobbies is basketball. All the while in the background—and sometimes in the foreground is seen Mary Gale Haynes, Frank's favorite female. She says of Frank: "He is indeed a truly wonderful person, one in a million. Words can not describe the true Frank. He is always considerate and understanding. I consider myself a very lucky person".

Indeed, the Montreat campus is a much better place because of the presence of Frank Powell.

Spookin' Round

First of all I'd like to say, although the Montreat Spirit is in all of us, I think we'll all agree no one has quite as much spirit as Joanne Manning. Joanne, we're all thinking about you and praying for you.

Next, I get down on bended knees to ask forgiveness for the misspelling of the name of one of our dearly beloved students. Jayne Newcombe, please except most humble apology.

The South will rise again!!? If you ask me, it's the South Congo. Limbo, Limbo, Queen of the Congo—Eh "Boom Boom"? While talking about the South, just ask Jim Nance who started the Civil War.

By the way, since when did it get so cold that trees have to wear coats? Reese, I really think the trees will survive without.

Sara Bird did you . . . no, I better not say.

Miss McNeill, did you really spill your milk on the bus? Now don't say you didn't, I know. And don't you go and blame it on the bus driver just because he stopped short.

FLASH — Mrs. Corbett beat Miss Hoyt in one of the games at Family Night.

ADVERTISEMENT — Join the new club IHM. It's not in the handbook yet, but everything possible is being done to get it in. For more information report to room 114. Incidentally, for you uneducated readers, it stands for "I Hate Men".

We dedicate this song to Jim and Elaine, "Let's Make Believe".

Have you noticed the new fade going 'round? It's really quite congenial, you can be comfortable at church, receptions, or anywhere. Just wear saddle oxfords— isn't that right, Brenda?

Who's the juking organist down at the Methodist Church in Black Mountain? Reese, don't you know these old Methodist just can't sing that fast?

Well, it's time for me to be saying good-bye. I wish you all the best of luck in the exams. Here are a few songs that I'm dedicating to you: "Teacher's Pet" and "Please, Mrs. Corbett, I don't want to fail". Just remember kiddies, "You've Got to Have Heart". So long for now!

EXAMS

Can't wait 'til tomorrow (another exam)
Today's been such fun (I've done nothing but cram)

I've memorized history (the dates and such)
I've studied my English (though not very much)

I've pondered on Bible (I feel so dense)
I'm puzzled on French verbs (what's that new tense?)

I've worried and fretted and pulled my hair
And now that I've studied, I don't even care!

I couldn't care less what my grades will be;
I'm happy-go-lucky! Worry? Not me!
The best thing to do is to just keep cool
They can't make me panic—I'm nobody's fool!

My roommate is calling me down the hall
What? You can't mean I've flunked them all!

Singers Go South

On January 26, the Montreat Singers of Montreat-Anderson College will begin its tour. Destination . . . Florida, the Sunshine State. The program for the group is one of inspiration. Every song they will sing is one filled with beauty and meaning. Since there are many students here from Florida and the other states, you all may be interested in the schedule.

The first stop will be Central High school in Rutherfordton, North Carolina, at 1:30 p.m. That night at 8:30 they will perform at the First Baptist Church and First Presbyterian Church in Spindale, North Carolina. On January 27, the second day of the tour, they will be in Forest City, North Carolina, at Cool Springs High school and that night at the First Presbyterian Church in Abbeville, South Carolina. January 28 finds the group en route to Bainbridge, Georgia, where they will sing in the First Presbyterian Church. Next it is on to Wheel!! FLORIDA. There at 7:30 p.m., the people of Westminster Presbyterian Church in Tallahassee, Florida, will have the pleasure of hearing them sing. January 30 at 7:00 p.m. they will be at the First Presbyterian Church in Ocala, Florida. After this the singers will travel on to St. Petersburg, Florida, and on January 31 they will be at the First Presbyterian
