

Montreat-Anderson College Library
Montreat, N.C.

Box 446, Montreat, N. C.
Return Postage Guaranteed

The Dialectic

VOL. 3, NO. 11 MONTREAT-ANDERSON COLLEGE, MONTREAT, NORTH CAROLINA FEBRUARY, 1961

Paper Dedicated to Prospectives

Spiritual Emphasis W.

The week of February 20-24 has been set aside on the Montreat activity calendar as Spiritual Emphasis week. It is a tradition at Montreat to have such a week whereby the campus can step aside from its hurried routine and take time for the spiritual side of life.

The students and faculty of Montreat are honored to have the Reverend Phil Esty, the associate pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Memphis, Tennessee to lead us in this week of worship. Rev. Esty has done extensive work with the students at the University of Georgia, and he has worked with young people at many conferences and camps. The Rev. Esty will speak at the morning Chapel service at 10:00 and each evening at 7:30. Fire-side discussions are being planned in the lobby of Howerton Hall. The Rev. Esty will be happy to talk privately with any one who so desires.

Welcome, New Students

As students began returning to school after the semester break, they found that several new faces had been added to the campus. It is our privilege to welcome you to Montreat, and we hope that your stay will prove as fruitful as have ours who have been here before.

BECKY ADKINS hails from Marion, North Carolina, and is a transfer student from North Carolina Woman's College.

ROBERTA DEBNAM started her first semester of college life this semester. She is from Aiken, South Carolina.

DAPHNE JOLLEY from Black Mountain, North Carolina, is a transfer student from Greenville Nurses' School in Greenville, South Carolina.

This issue of the DIALETTE is especially dedicated to prospective students. It is hoped that through this paper that you will get to know more about college life in general and specifically about life at Montreat-Anderson College.

College is a place of great advancement, not only in the knowledge of books, but in personal maturity, fellowship, and Christian spirit.

We, the members of the DIALETTE Staff, have attempted to present to you some of these phases of college life as they are found at Montreat. We hope you will enjoy them enough to come and see Montreat for yourself.

Methodist Men Visit Montreat Campus

Do you remember all those men that were here the first week of the semester? Well, they were Methodist people. Yes, a whole group of Methodists on this perfectly good Presbyterian campus. Well, I interviewed a few of them and they gave me a few of their ideas on their ideal Christian college. Opportunities for individual spiritual development was one such idea. Another said he thought it should prepare one for a good Christian life. I believe this last suggestion will be more pondered upon than either of the others, it was, NO COMPULSORY CHAPEL!!

Also in the interview a few points about their youth groups were brought out. Their college group, as the Presbyterian Westminster Fellowship, is called the Wesley Foundation, and their other youth groups are called the Methodist Youth Fellowship. These groups have work camps, travel

—Turn to Page 4

DEAR PROSPECTIVE STUDENT:

As you are able to gather from the articles in this newspaper, February is a busy month for Montreat-Anderson College students. The chorus has just returned from Florida, Valentine's Day will soon be here, Christian Emphasis Week is scheduled during February, and there is more—a College Week End. This is a three day period when you, as a prospective student, are invited to come to Montreat. While here, you will be given an opportunity to participate in college life. You will be able to stay in the dorm; eat meals in the dining hall; go to classes; join the last service of Christian Emphasis Week Friday night; go to the basketball game and informal party Saturday night; and Sunday, worship with the Montreat community. Because you are our guests, the only cost to you will be your transportation.

As the administration, faculty, and student body always looks forward to your coming, they want the week end to be a happy, exciting one. They also want to help you plan not just a week end, but a future. If you have any problems, such as whether or not you should come to college or whether this college offers the courses and atmosphere you seek, someone will always be available to offer help. This week end is planned to open the doors to new ideas and new experiences for you.

Everyone sincerely hopes that they will see you at College Week End, February 24, 25, and 26. But, if you are not able to attend at this time another College Week End is being arranged for May 5, 6, and 7. However, please feel free to visit us any time that is most suitable for you.

Montreat College Library