Students Honored At Reception

The stairs and lobby of Assembly Inn were arrayed with many lovely gowns and smiles at the first formal reception of our school year which was held on Monday evening, September 11. Guests and students were first greeted by Miss Elizabeth Wilson, Dean of Women, and Nancy Whittemore, Social Chairman. Each one was presented to the president of Montreat-Anderson College, Dr. C. Grier Davis and his wife, Mrs. Davis, who in turn introduced the guests to our vice-president, Dr. Ivan Stafford and his wife, Mrs. Stafford. Following these in the receiving line were the Executive Dean, George E. Stockton and his wife, Mrs. Stockton, the Dean of Men, Mr. J. M. Maddox and his wife, Mrs. Maddox, and the other faculty members and their husbands and/or wives. Later the members of the Cabinet of the Student Government Association were introduced.

The three hundred or more guests were served punch by Cabinet and Social Committee members. Arrangements for the reception were made by Miss E. Wilson, Dean of Women, Miss Elizabeth Hoyt, Professor of History, and Mrs. Harry K. McDonald, wife of Harry K. McDonald, Business Manager.

MONTREAT DIALETTE HONORS "MISS SEPTEMBER"

Editor's Note: The Dialectte, in connection with the Cabinet of the Student Government Association, has decided to feature an Outstanding Student each month. This student will be elected by the Cabinet on the basis of school spirit, leadership, and character. It is hoped that this will be considered an honor by the entire student body.

This honor has been awarded this month to one who has gained the love and respect of each of us, Marion Moore—our Miss September.

Miss Marion Moore is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Moore from Rock Hill, South Carolina. More commonly known as "Frosty" by those who love her here at Montreat, it is impossible to miss her vivacious personality and sparkling smile. It is no wonder that she is so well-liked and known by everyone because of her many assets.

At Montreat "Frosty" is in every activity she can handle. She will be very well-known to all the Freshmen before too long as she gives forth all her Montreat spirit in urging them to participate in the team sports as vice-president of W.R.A. The athletic program is not her only interest. Unlike many students, she takes a real interest in all her studies. In Fellowship she serves as Hall Court Chairman and Prayer Group Leader.

Montreat is not the only place "Frosty" is so well-liked. At Winthrop Training School in Rock Hill, she participated in dramatics, was May Queen, assistant cheerleader, made All-Area as a guard on the girls' basketball team, and was elected "friendliest" of her senior class. She was also among the fourteen debutantes presented in December 1960, at the annual Debutante Ball.

Personally, one could not say enough about this girl we admire so very greatly. She is not only admired for these, her accomplishments, but for what she is. As such a true friend, lady, and respected personality, one does not need know her too long before he realizes that she has something many of us lack, a real faith and trust to the One who loved her enough to die for her. Now "Frosty" seeks only to honor Him and she would like any glory she may have to go to Him.

DR. DAVIS CHALLENGES TEMPTATIONS UPWARD

As a new college year opens I should like to speak to you on "Temptations Upward." My subject is borrowed from Dr. W. H. P. Founce, former President of Brown University, who wrote: "There are many temptations in the modern college. Wherever there is life, there is the testing of life. There are no temptations in the cemetery but no one wants to go there. To be alive is to feel, to choose, to grapple and the good life is a good fight."

To be sure, a college cannot abolish temptation. As a matter of fact you will be confronted with new and exciting temptations here which you have never had before, but college can and does provide temptations upward, opportunities and challenges to a higher and larger life.

COLLEGE FACULTY GAINS FIVE NEW MEMBERS THIS SCHOOL YEAR

This year we are very fortunate to add five additional members to our faculty.

The Reverend Robert Gray is originally from Rochester, New Hampshire. He went to school at Gordon College and Andover-Newton Theological Seminary in Boston, Mass. He is teaching Freshman Bible and is minister of the Black Mountain Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Alton R. Cates comes originally from Georgia. He attended Davidson College and Louisiana State University. He has taught previously at Troy State Teacher's College in Alabama, Bethel College in Tennessee and Meridian Junior College in Mississippi. Mr. —Turn to Page 4

COLLEGE STUDENT BODY ENROLLMENT DOUBLES

The school year 1961-1962 brings to Montreat the largest number of students ever to be enrolled in this Junior College. With a total of 243 students on campus, the enrollment has doubled that of last year. Eighty of the student body is composed of male students. This is the largest number of boys to attend Montreat, since the recent change to a co-educational college. There are 16 women taking advantage of the adult class for nurses at Oteen Hospital. Also, a number of local students from the surrounding area are on our campus.

Within this large student body, some 21 states and the District of Columbia are represented. We have students from as far west as California, as far north as Connecticut, and as far south as the Florida Keys, but of all these states, North Carolina still manages to lead in the number of students represented. The Floridians have the second largest representation.

On the international scene we have eight foreign countries represented in our student body. From the Far East come four students, a boy and girl from Japan, and a brother and sister from Hong Kong, who now reside in Japan. From South of the border come girl twins of Morelia, Mexico. Even farther south, from Brazil, comes a sophomore girl. Another sophomore is from Honduras, but she is now living in the United States. From Cuba we have a boy who has recently become an American citizen, and girl who has only been in this country for five months. Two of our students have lived abroad in Venezuela and Korea.

No matter from where you hail—east or west, north or south, Asia or South America, we are glad to have you among the student body of 1961-1962. WELCOME!

Freshmen Orientation

One, two, three, four . . . one hundred, two hundred, and on and on they came from the four corners of the earth. Some carried trunks, some carried chests and others just carried themselves. Nevertheless, they all grouped together to form the new Freshmen Class of Montreat-Anderson College. The first day was filled with the excitement of moving, —Turn to Page 2

Dr. Nelson Bell Visits Campus

The question, What Will We Do for Jesus Christ?, was asked by Dr. L. Nelson Bell in a chapel period on September 19 of the student body. Dr. L. Nelson Bell is a Montreat resident and is a firm supporter of Montreat-Anderson College. Dr. Bell served as a missionary to China for a number of years, and since that time has practiced medicine in the United States.

"Today we live in the smallest world of anybody that has ever lived. Many efforts of men have brought the world closer and closer. We also live in the most disturbed world ever. There are two great contending forces in the lands of our earth—communism and the forces for freedom. The thing we need is to have men and women stand for the things of lasting values.

"The most important question that can be asked of our age or of any age group is concerning Jesus Christ. What will you do for Jesus Christ, and what will you do with Jesus Christ? Our questions concerning vocation, marriage, material security, education, and friendships are of utmost importance, but only in their relationship to Jesus Christ. Our decision as to what we will do with Jesus Christ is one that will effect us through eternity. The others are dealing with this life only.
