

EDITORIAL:

I think maybe you might enjoy reading our paper more if you knew and understood what it is going to include.

The social column is to be written by a freshman, Anne McNeely, from North Carolina, who is majoring in science. Anne will be writing reports on the clubs and their activities. She will be writing about social events that have occurred or will be occurring on campus. Each month she will present a calendar of the social events that are to come. Any activities pertaining to this field will be reported by Anne and your club news should be given to her.

A column entitled "The Lion's Roar" will be presented by Judie Knight, a sophomore from Toronto, Canada. Judie's course of study is Religious Education. It is Judie's duty to add a little humor to our paper. If you know Judie, you will agree that her sense of humor is a striking one. Who knows what she'll come up with.

Jim Morrison, a freshman from Columbia, South Carolina, will be the reporter of political news. Jim's course of study is pre-law. It will be his duty to report on any situation or news event at the present, in the past, or that may occur in the future.

The sports column will be presented by Mike Clark. Mike is a freshman from Brevard, North Carolina, and is majoring in journalism. Anytime Montreat is participating in some sports activity, you can assure yourself that Mike will be there to report it for you. Mike has written a sports column for two years. In his junior year of high school, he wrote for his high school paper and in his senior year, he wrote for the Brevard College Paper.

George Darden will be presenting a column pertaining to music. George, a sophomore from Orangeburg, South Carolina, is majoring in music. He is an outstanding musician, and if you ever heard him you would know what I mean. Before George graduated from high school, he was admitted to the Music Department of Indiana University. In 1963, he made his debut with the Savannah Symphony Orchestra. It will be his job to take something of musical interest to all and to report on it.

Mike Ryon, a sophomore from Chapel Hill, North Carolina, deals with two things. Mike's course of study is liberal arts and next year his major will be architecture at N. C. State. Mike has a column that will be concerned with a personality in the school. In this column, he will introduce the person and tell something of his life and plans. The other job Mike has is to present the cartoons.

The editor of the paper is Janice Rogers, a sophomore from Canton, North Carolina, whose course of study is music. The assistant editor is Kim Moore, a sophomore from Melbourne Beach, Florida. Kim's course of study is science. Janice and Kim will be responsible for writing the editorials for each edition.

John Hall, a freshman from Amelia C. H., Virginia, is majoring in Christian Education. John is responsible for the layout of the paper, along with Terrie Revis and Mary Lynne Wright, who will type the paper. Terrie is a sophomore from Canton, North Carolina, and is majoring in business education. Mary Lynne is a sophomore from Jacksonville, Florida and is majoring in secretarial science.

Do you have a problem that you think should be discussed editorially? If so, send it to this paper in the form of a letter to the editor. Your views and name will be kept in the strictest confidence.

Since this is the first issue of a new edition of "The Dialette," the volume issue of this and succeeding issues this year will be number I.
