

E D I T O R I A L S :

A WORD TO THIEVES

In our world we can find nothing more repulsive than a thief. Especially a thief who because of his own selfishness steals text books from his fellow students. From fellow students who, no doubt, he gives a very friendly greeting to each and every time that he meets him. There is nothing right what so ever in stealing. We don't care if our fellow student who is a thief is stealing because his family can't afford to buy all of his books. The fact is and always has been that a ny Montreat-Anderson student who needs money not only for books but for clothes or certain other things has gotten it by consulting with the Dean of Students. If a student is in need, he is NEVER turned down. He doesn't have to steal here to survive.

We know that the person who steals here is the type of person that would not only steal from his best friend but probably from his family as well. It's not that he doesn't have the money for his books but it is rather that the nine dollars he saved on a World Civ book could be applied very well to some night on the town. He never thinks of the fact that the person whose book he stole might not be able to buy another one for a few weeks even with financial help. This might cause the victim to fail the course. We are sure that this won't make much difference to our thief because he is the type of person that doesn't care about anything except himself anyway.

We rest assured that this editorial has not changed one thief's attitude toward his infamous act BUT he now knows that we cannot tolerate his act. And we are not alone -- there are 375 students behind us!

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Something new has been added to the Montreat campus, a new type of life.

What brought this big change? An Italian dinner, played to the hilt with red linen napkins, delicious food, and excellent accordion and guitar music. It was really a night to remember.

One might say: "Well, why mention all this?" The answer is very simple - some people don't know how to accept the better side of life. On the whole, the reception of the student body was favorable; however, several commoners made derogatory remarks to detract from the festivities.

These satirical people and their limited knowledge, shown by their statements and actions, point out the need for more worldly affairs. Something is surely lacking in their social lives.

Keep up the good work and festive banquets, Mr. Sellers. We really appreciate it!

"STOP THE WORLD."
COMING
IN MAY

"Stop the World - I Want to Get Off", a three-act play by Anthony Newley and Leslie Bricusse, will be presented in early May by the "Thalians." This, one of the biggest shows on Broadway, incorporates the best of comedy and drama with music to form a two-year success story for a circus plot.

Auditions for the play will be held the week following long weekend.

An audition schedule will be posted before long weekend. Everyone is encouraged to audition!

TO A CITIZEN

Highlight! Sound the brass. Montreat has a true citizen. The spotlight has fallen on Betty Robinet.

Betty, a Freshman from Knoxville, Tennessee, has shown herself to be an outstanding personality. She believes in hard work, dedication, and a willing spirit.

Those wonderful Vesper Services on Sunday nights are Betty's ideas. As vice-president of the SCA, it is her responsibility to see that these programs have order and closeness to college life.

An Easter program, plus several secret plans, are now in Betty's "little black book." The very best of luck and a big thank you for a job well done are in order!
