Freshman Elections '75

PAUL WILLIAMS FOR FRESHMAN PRESIDENT

promote more student exactly wht is going on in their awareness. The only way this governmental affairs. school can be unified is to let

If elected, I intend to all of the students know

PAULA MYERS FOR FRESHMAN VICE-PRESIDENT

tation provides a more ef- structive criticism. fective way in communicating

Sincere student represen- personal opinions and con-

College counselor guides students

by JOHN DANIEL fall," Counseling and Testing Director Al Stamberg tells M-A C sophomores. One of the ways he and other administrators have been helping students get a head start on transferring was College Day, held in the L. Nelson Bell Library last Thursday afternoon.

Admissions counselors from about 60 senior colleges talked with students about their transfer plans. Students asked questions concerning the colleges' costs, size, distance from home and the courses they needed to take at Montreat—Anderson to qualify for admission as juniors.

Stamberg has bookshelves full of current catalogues and application forms to help students finalize their transfer plans. He invites both freshmen and sophomores to drop by his office or make an appointment.

of on the ball for next DURING FRESHMAN ORIENTATION early this year Al Stamberg gave a battery of interest inventory tests to entering fresman. The test results, figured by computer, were designed to give each student an insight into how his interests were related to potential careers.

Overall results showed that a majority of freshman students had religious and spiritual interest. Other interest scoring high wih M-A C freshman were concerned with nature, adventure, athletics and social sciences.

Favored occupations included Licensed Practical Nurses, English teachers, P. teachers. college professors, artists, musicians and beauticians. In other areas, the results showed potential computer salesmen, chemists, physicists and accountants among the M-A C freshman class.

FOR HONOR COUNCIL REPRESENTATIVE

I would like to make a worthwhile contribution to my fellow students. I will not make any rash promises, but only to say that I am willing to work for and with the

A job, such as this, would require patience and understanding on the part of the ourselves as well.

entire student body, but I am confident that with my willingness to work and your suggestions, that we could

WILLIS DOWLING HONOR COUNCIL REPRESENTATIVE

Under the code of honor that titudes on the defendant's part is existent at Montreat, instead of excessive punishstudents are expected to ment and feel an inward trust maintain a disciplined life that this person will do better. while our authority treats us Montreat is not a breeding with consideration and mutual place for wrongdoing, but on respect. However, if a student should break this trust, he is mosphere for spiritual subject to disciplinary action by the Honor Council.

I know the accused has rights and I would be in favor of seeing that thy are upheld. As the defendant faces the Honor Council, he should have the confidence that the judgement will be fair. In being fair, this should be a firm lesson to his own disciplinary.good.

In my analysis of the cases, I would observe, among other things, how severe the violation was and how much it infringed on the rights of the civilized student population. I'd rather see changed at-thou art my God: thy spirit is good; lead me into the land of uprightness." Psalm 143:10.

the contrary, it is an atgrowth. What initiates the actions of man? It is his spirit, and I firmly believe that the Spirit of God, when given complete control of the individual, brings about order and harmony in man, who in turn, relates this to his society.

As freshman representative to the Honor Council, you can count on me to pray for that person and seek the Lord's guidance in the decision I have to make. I respect the seriousness of the job and will voice my opinion in the meetings when the opportunity presents itself.

"Stand fast therefore in the "Teach me to do thy will; for Liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage." Galatians 5:1.

SAM FELDMAN FOR HONOR COUNCIL REPRESENTATIVE

give the best service possible Montreat-Anderson College

As a representative to the to the entire student body, in Honor Council I stand for the way of honesty, in speech several things: First of all and in deed. I desire but the for Jesus Christ, my Lord and chance to prove this to you, Savior. Secondly I stand to the students and faculty of

Co-op program finds students jobs

by LINDA LEACH

Well into its second year of full operation, the Cooperative Education Program has greatly expanded op-portunites for students interested in gaining off-campus work, especially in fields related to their career choices.

The student entering the Coop Program has a choice of two options. The first is to spend two semesters on campus tollowed by one off campus during each year at Montreat. On campus, the student pursues his studies full time. In his "free" semester he works full time at

The second option opened to students is the parallel program where the student is in school part of the day and at work part of the day during each semester.

Students receive academic credit for their work experience and are paid by their employers.

More than fifty students will be able to parrticipate in the co-op program this year. There are sufficient number of jobs available, especially in the Asheville area. Special arrangements can be made for students who wish to work in there localities.

Students who have previously worked in the Coop Program say that it is a great be nefit to them for they gain insights into their careers, get work experience, and earn money as well.

Mrs. Joyce Kinnison, director of the Cooperative Education Program, said that the job opportunities include: city and county government, banks, newspapers, parks and recreation, mental health centers, city and county boards of education, health departments, Carowinds, Six Flags over Georgia, business and industry, day care centers, hospitals, summer camps, childrens homes, theater groups radio and television and Disney World for Florida Residents only.

All students interested in participating in cooperative Education Program should pick up an application and brochure in the Co-op office—room eight in Gaither.

