Renovation of Howerton Dorm Planned

According to Dean Larry Wilson, an architectural firm has completed the preliminary plans for the renovation of Howerton Dorm and Howerton Cafeteria. The plans are almost ready for the contractors to bid on.

These preliminary plans call for the following: new electrical system, new plumbing, new exits for the back of the dorm, new windows, new floor coverings, lower ceilings in all rooms, the remodeling of the bathrooms, an intercom system for the halls, new doors and locks, new paint throughout the dorm, and new built in furniture for all rooms.

The entrance ways to the cafeteria and the front of Howerton may be renovated in a limited way.

These plans must be passed by the administration before anything can be done. If or when passed, the plans are then ready for the contractors to bid on. Modifications on the plans may be necessary if the bids are all high.

The work may be done by the start of fall semester for Howerton and hopefully the cafeteria too. Some work can be done while school is in progress so long as it doesn't bother the students as they try to study.

Montreat Hosts Olympics in '79

by Karl E. Peters

Yet another event has made its home in Montreat. The Bible Olympics, an event sponsored by members of the M-AC faculty for area high school students was recently held on campus.

The Bible Olympics are a series of tests on several areas of the Bible for fifteen through eighteen year olds. The idea, originally that of Dr. Jack Crawford, was to work for three causes. It would stimulate the interest of high schoolers in Bible, bring positive publicity to the school, and bring possible new students to the campus.

The first two tests were written with the final as a "spelling bee" type test. All were designed by a five person committee consisting of Mr. Parks, Dean Carroll, Miss Brousseau, Dr. Newton, and Dr. Crawford with each person working on a particular area of Biblical study.

Turnout, although less than expected, was quite adequate. All thirteen did well. Volunteers from the Christian Education class helped in grading. Several visitors looked on as the seven finalists competed in the "spelling bee" type competition.

A local girl, Elizabeth McCay, was the final winner and took home $50 for her efforts. The question that won it; "Name the person who stole some of the goods from Jerusalem and let the Jews suffer." Second and third place rewards were given out along with certificates of merit to those who finished with honorable mention.

Plans for the future of the olympics include the possibility of a scholarship for the winner, making it more school oriented.

ΦΘΚ FINE ARTS FESTIVAL

by Karl E. Peters

Once again we will have opportunity to exhibit our talents as the annual Phi Theta Kappa sponsored "Fine Arts Week" will be coming up from April second through sixth. Categories will include literature, arts and crafts, photography, and music and drama. Any questions concerning eligibility should be directed to members of PTK.

Pat Terry Comes to M-AC

by Janice White

Spring will bring a variety of exciting events to Montreat this year. One of these is taking place on April 24, when Pat Terry will be performing on campus. Pat and his group are dedicated to full-time work in the music field. They perform contemporary Jesus music.

Pat and his new bride of January 27, (named Pam) are from Smyrna, Ga. He is twenty-seven. His group has been together since New Year's Eve, 1973. Pat, incidentally, is a close friend of Howerton head-resident Jeff Griffin.
