Ladies' Volleyball Team Enthusiastic about End of Season

By Kathryn Letterman

The Lady Cavalier's Volleyball Team closes this season marking their most successful season yet, with 12 wins and 21 losses.

Stephanie Cone commented on the team's growth since the start of the season, "As a team, we've improved greatly since the beginning of the year. This year the majority of us were young players and we had to learn to play together as a team."

Being the member of an organized team takes hard work. Before the season started, the Lady Cav's ran miles a day around Lake Susan and once the season started, they switched to sprints. During the season, they practiced two hours per day on days they did not have games.

Now that the season is over, the Lady Cavs will continue to lift and run two to three hours a day to keep in shape.

Both the woman's basketball and volleyball teams wanted to expand their seasons, therefore returners had to choose which sport they wanted to play. Also, entering freshmen were specifically recruited for each sport. Some of the players were unhappy with this decision because they enjoy playing both sports.

Some concern about the way others view the team was expressed by Lori Elliott: "Anytime people have something in common, they hang out together. We don't want anyone to feel like they can't approach us.

Students Forced to Make Tough Decisions

By Marcy B uckner

Before one semester ends, students must prepare for the next. Pre-registration for classes for Spring semester 1994 has begun.

"Even if a student is not sure if they will be returning, it is a good idea to preregister anyway, just in case," advises assistant registrar Carol Nix.

Each student must meet with his/ heradvisor, and then submit a copy of the pre-registration form to the registrar. Although advisors have begun meeting with students, forms may not be submitted to the registrar's office before November 8.

Attention

Anyone who is interested in investigating, reporting, or editing is encouraged to sign up for Journalism Workshop (English 224).

Class credit is available.

New classes, and variations to previous classes, offered next semester include: Environmental Science 301, Geology, Soil Ecology and Land Resources, English 312 (Public Affairs Communication), English 341 (Field Education), and English 401(Seminar in Literature).

Public Affairs Communication is a new class that will deal with the production and use of the media. There is a change from period three to period six possible in order to secure more computer time.

English 341, Field Education, was previously under Family Science and Business. The change in numbering will allow the English department to secure its own internship.

The Seminar in Literature class is a previously established class that varies its topics each semester. Spring semester's topic will be contemporary female writers.

We're all good people."

In fact, freshman Christy Waddell pointed out how the other team members made her feel welcome, "We all came together really quick. I felt like they really accepted me."

The team is enthusiastically looking forward to next season. Traci Haynes commented, "Next year, we will be very competitive and when we walk off of the court, they will never forget the Lady Cav's Volleyball Team"

Backpacking Class Challenged by Weather

By Sean Anderson

Students braved the weather last weekend. On Friday, the M-AC backpacking class ventured to Sam Knob in the Pisgah National Forest.

The group originally planned to camp out until Sunday, but due to the cold rain and fog, they decided to return to campus on Saturday.

Instructor Jay Guffey commented, "My impressions of the trip were that everyone did good with responding to the elements and the unpredictability of the outdoors. It was enjoyable, in spite of the wind and the rain."

Participant Derek Sims expressed, "Even though the trip was wet, cold, and dreary, we were still able to have good, fun fellowship together."

Soccer Team Kicks Hard in Conference

By Sean Anderson

The soccer team finished their season with a final record of 4 - 12. They defeated Milligan, Bluefield, Warren Wilson, and Bryan College.

In Conference play, the Cavs pulled out an even record of three wins and three losses, placing them fourth in the conference.

The key players this season were Massamba Falls and Aki Susuki. Senior Quent Johnson was unable to complete the season due to medical reasons. With Johnson being out in the last four games, Jeff Ramsey stepped in as goalie.

Coach Schutt said that the team has experience now and is hoping that the same players will return next year. He also added, "We finished off strong and we will start winning the close games that we've been losing."

According to Schutt, next season "will be a year of surprises."

Phil Lomac commented, "We played well as a team, but didn't win many games."

M-AC Dedicates New Student Hang-Out

By Marcy Buckner

The newly completed Commons Area will be dedicated to M-AC students on November 9, at 10:30 am. While students are attending convocation, invited guests will be having a reception in the Fellowship Hall to organize the dedication ceremony.

Shortly before 10:30, students will move to the commons area, and the Gaither Commons Dedication Ceremony will begin. President Hurt will be making the actual dedication, and SGA President Jeff Reardon will recognize the key donors and thank them on behalf of the students.

The invited guests are mainly donors that have been involved with the project, including representatives of major organizations that gave lumber, money, etc.

Weather permitting, a barbecue lunch will be served at the commons area following the ceremony. Later that afternoon, the Cavalier Grill will be providing free popcorn and music at the commons. At 8pm, a free concert for the students will also be held there.

Junior Andrea Curry stated, "I think the commons area is going to be a neat place for students to get together."
