"If you were to leave the U.S., where would you go and why?"

Kaylin

Human services major Kaylin Fisher dreams of going to Sevilla, Spain. "I've been there before," she says, "the size of the city is perfect for me. It hardly ever gets cold." The senior has also been to Canada, Holland, Scotland, and Mexico.

Chantae

Elementary education major Chantae Bryant would choose to travel to England. The Goldsboro, NC native, "heard about it" and thinks it's "probably the most clean, most decent place to go"

Danielle

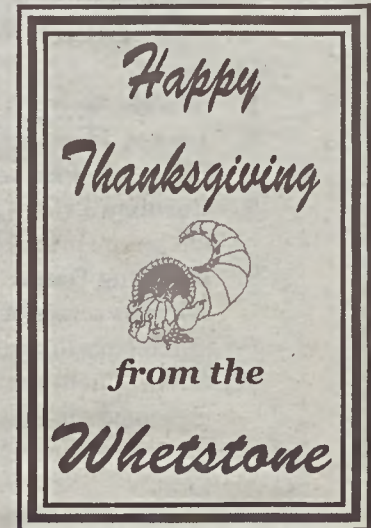

Sophomore Danielle Hiatt from Marion, NC wants to visit Paris, France to "eat at all the little sidewalk cafés, and visit all of the museums." The human services major also wants to ogle at "all the cute Paris men."

Jeremiah

Jeremiah Siemens would like to go to Canada. "I like the cold weather," the junior says. Siemens would also like to spend time in Mexico, where the history major vacationed and "enjoyed the coffee and the orange juice."

Volunteers Aid Victims

residents linger in nearby motels. In addition, homeowners who did not receive much damage have opened their homes to their neighbors.

The group crashed each night at Gulf Breeze United Methodist Church over the weekend. The church had a list of residents requesting volunteer assistance, and the group responded to five homes on the list.

Gulf Breeze residents openly received the help. "People were overwhelmingly thankful, considering us 'angles sent from above," Heckman reflects. "It makes you glad to do whatever you can ...and thankful for what you have."

The majority of the finances for this trip came from Montreat College and Montreat Presbyterian Church.

"We were really excited about going," says Nelson, "and accomplishing as much as we could in the short amount of time we had."

West asserts, "I hope that the students that participate in the trip will come closer together in the midst of this tragedy and respond to what we were created to do, which is to serve."

During Ivan's rampage, 52 people in the U.S. lost their lives, 16 of which perished in Florida. Conservative estimates put damage in the U.S. alone at $5 to $15 billion.

Repairs continue after Hurricane Ivan damaged and destroyed thousands of U.S. homes, mainly in Florida and Alabama. "It's two months after the hurricane and work still needs to be done," says Heckman.
