

FROM THE EDITOR

In 101 days I will be a graduate of Montreat College and will walk across the stage to receive my diploma. Yes, I am counting down the days, just like half of Montreat's population. I am not sure of the actual number but there seem to be a quite a few individuals looking forward to May 22, 2010.

101 days may seem like a long time, but it isn't. Those who know me well know I am a huge thinker. I think about everything and am always planning things out. I like to know what's next. If something is changed it throws me off and I often don't know how to respond.

I share this because I have been thinking about what's after graduation. I'm sure many of you are in the same boat. What is next? What do I truly want to do? Where am I going with my life? Am I where I need to be spiritually? Do I want to go to graduate school? What state do I want to live in?

I had a number of answers and solutions. When I asked myself the question, "Am I where I need to be spiritually?" Sadly my answer was no. If I'm not right spiritually how can I answer the other questions? Why would I even think I could?

One thing I know for sure is that God has all these answers and more, and if I want answers to my questions, I must first get right with my faith.

I share this realization because, like me, in 101 days many Montreat students will began the next chapter of their life. I ask you to ask yourself the same question. Are you where you need to be spiritually?

If not, I challenge you, as I challenge myself, to make a strong attempt to be on track with your walk with Christ before graduation.
