

GREAT SIGHTS IN AMERICA

There's nothing like it on earth—or beneath the earth.

It's Luray Caverns, a rainbow-hued underground world of stalagmites and stalactites, covering 64 acres of majestic natural wonders, twisting, turning trails and rooms carved out by time, some that soar to 140 feet in height.

Open for tours every day of the year, Luray Caverns is the largest, most popular tourist attraction of its kind in the east, and one of the oldest. It was discovered in 1878 by two amateur cave explorers and has been open to guided tours since that time.

A major attraction to the more than a half million American and foreign visitors each year is the Great Stalacpipe Organ, the largest and most unique musical instrument ever invented. When cushioned hammers are struck against stalactite formations, beautiful musical tones echo through the caverns.

Since these rock formations "grow" at the rate of only one cubic inch every 120 years, they are expected to stay in tune at least until the year 3,000.

There's not only music underground, but above ground as well. A carillon of 47 bells is played at Luray Caverns each Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday from early spring through late fall. The largest bell weighs 7,640 pounds; the smallest, 12 1/2 pounds.

Luray is on U.S. 211, ten minutes from the Central Entrance to Shenandoah National Park and Skyline Drive, 15 minutes from Interstate 81 (Exit 67) at New Market, Virginia, and one and a half hours from Washington, D.C., via Beltway-West (Exit 9).

The Caverns are a photographer's paradise. In one area, 25,000 watts of special lighting provide ample illumination for pictures with still and movie cameras.

A trip to Luray is an unforgettable experience. Soaring cavern walls reflect every color of the rainbow. Shimmering draperies, crystal pools and monumental columns are breathtaking sights to behold.

Located on the Caverns' grounds is a collection of 75 antique vehicles, from a Royal Coach, built in Portugal and used before 1625, to autos of the 1930s. Also at the Caverns are two motels and the Caverns and Coach Restaurant.

If you'd like to squeeze in a round of golf with your "cave-orting," there's the 18-hole Caverns Country Club Resort, a public course one half mile west of the Caverns. There are also four hard-surface tennis courts.

Only 20 minutes from Luray Caverns is the Hall of Valor at New Market Battlefield Park, where exhibits, an award-winning film and the battlefield itself pay tribute to the Civil War's schoolboy soldiers from Virginia Military Institute.

There's much to do—and much to see—in Luray and the surrounding Virginia countryside. Whether you're looking for excitement or serenity, you can find it at Luray.

LURAY CAVERNS: UNDERGROUND DELIGHT

Among the many natural wonders at Luray Caverns are those that mimic real-life objects. One is the "fried eggs," shown above. Actually, they're the beginning of new stalagmites, but since millions of visitors rub these unique formations for good luck, growth has stopped. If you like bacon with your eggs, in another section of the cave you'll see drapery formations that appear strikingly like strips of fried bacon.

Cutting Firewood?—Heed These Chain Saw Safety Tips

next year's firewood now to give it time to season," he explains. "Better yet, you should be cutting it for the year after next.

"And when it comes time to burn it, do it safely. Wood stove and fireplace accidents are also on the rise."

Here's a quiz that may help you keep in sight some first aid do's and don'ts for eye emergencies.

1. In case of eye contact with chemicals (a) use an eye cup (b) flood the eye with water immediately, continuously and gently for at least 15 minutes?

2. If you get a speck in your eye (a) lift the upper eyelid outward and down over the lower lid (b) rub the eye gently?

4. For a cut or puncture of eye or eyelid (a) bandage lightly and see a doctor at once (b) wash out the eye with water?

ANSWERS: 1. (b) Try to keep eye open as widely as possible during flooding. Do not use an eye cup or bandage the eye. 2. (a) Then let tears wash out speck or particle. If it doesn't wash out, keep eye closed, bandage lightly and see a doctor, says the National Society to Prevent Blindness. Never rub. 3. (a) This will reduce pain and swelling. 4. (a) Above all, do not try to remove an object stuck in the eye yourself.

Memo For Motorists

The failing car battery is a frequent fact of life, and those who use improper jump-start procedures face a serious hazard. Just one spark can set off an eye-threatening explosion.

You can get a jump on safety when jump-starting a dead battery if you follow this advice from the National Society to Prevent Blindness.

• Put out all cigarettes and flames.

• Make sure cars don't touch. Turn off ignition.

Add battery water, if needed.

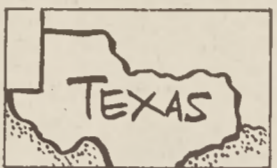

Don't proceed unless both batteries are negatively grounded and of the same voltage.

Clamp one jumper cable to positive (+) pole of dead battery, then clamp cable's other end to positive end of good battery.

At booster battery, connect second cable to negative (-) pole, then clamp other end to stalled car's engine block.

Start the booster car, then the disabled one. Remove the cables.

For maximum safety, everyone working with car batteries should wear protective goggles.

Texas was named after an Indian word meaning "friends."

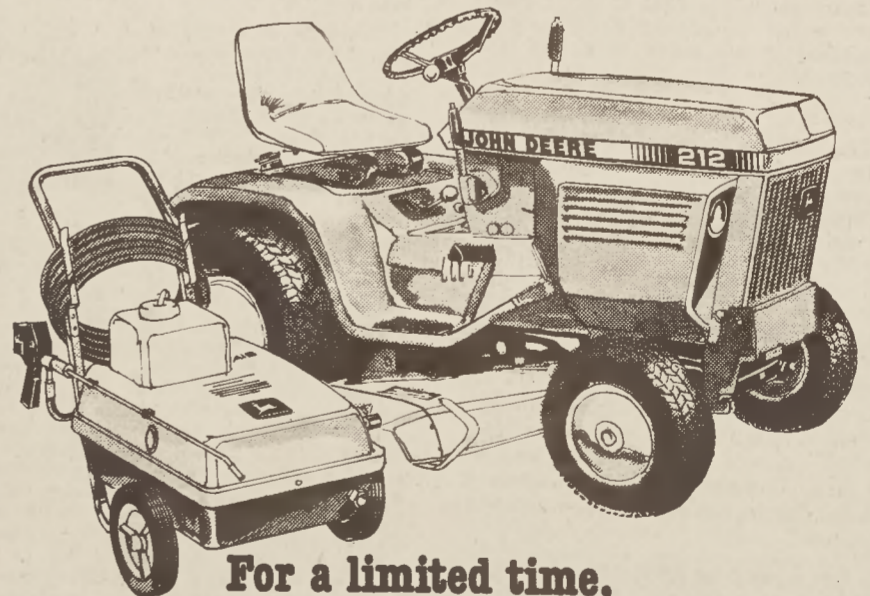

In Elizabethan England the spoon was such a novelty that people carried their own folding spoons to banquets.
