SCIENTISTS ARE MAKING US HEALTHIER
The wonderful world of sound is opening up for many of the hard-of-hearing today, thanks to a breakthrough in scientific research.

A conductive hearing aid is now available that sends sound waves directly to the inner ear, bypassing damaged or impaired eardrums that had previously ruled out help for many persons with certain serious hearing problems.
By vibrating the bone behind the ear, which creates no discomfort, the converted sound waves are transmitted to the inner ear auditory ossicle chain, which, in turn, causes the nerves there to produce the sensation of hearing.

According to the developers, Matsushita Electric of Japan, the bone-conduction hearing aid is particularly helpful for those with defective or even missing eardrums.

Vanity has long played a role in preventing the hearing impaired from seeking assistance. This new device requires no visible aids or amplifiers. Completely self-contained, it is concealed in the frames of a fashionable pair of glasses, suitable for every age bracket.

Also new from the same company is a device for taking blood pressure that can be used at home. The unit gives digital readings and "stores" information for later comparison.

When you travel the safest kinds of foods to take for snacks are fruits, vegetables, nuts, cookies, cold cereals, crackers, juices or soft drinks. However, if you have a good cooler, you can take whatever you like.

Maximilian I, an Austrian prince, originated the tradition of the diamond engagement ring in 1477. His bride was Mary of Burgundy, whom he had never seen until their marriage.

The first person known to have swum the English Channel was Matthew Webb, who performed the feat in August, 1875.

MAKING FAMILY LIFE MORE FUN

Popular Game Increases Understanding

More American families are sharing their feelings with each other and the reason may be a unique board game in which the players are asked penetrating questions about their hopes, interests and dreams. The result is an exciting group activity that helps families and friends become more open with each other.

Family members learn more about themselves and others by taking turns answering stimulating questions.

The game, called Ungame, consists of a board and cards with questions such as: "What makes you angry?" or "If you could become invisible where would you go? What would you do?" In the process of answering these questions, families and friends, adults and children share their ideas, feelings and opinions in a non-competitive atmosphere. What is eventually gained is an insight and understanding that helps make the players more aware of their own feelings and the feelings of others.

Available at toy stores, the popular new game is not only making family life more fun, but giving families an exciting new way to communicate.

TIPS FOR HOMEOWNERS

45 percent of all residential water is flushed down the toilet. One steady, undetected leak can waste as many as 78,000 gallons a year.

Don't look on the floor for leaks. Most seepage is internal and can go for years without detection.

If your toilet could talk it would alert you to a leaky flapper, the submerged rubber gizmo at the bottom of the tank that opens up when you flush. By the time it does sound off—usually with a symphony of leaks, squeaks and whistles, and always after midnight—tens of thousands of gallons have stolen down the drain. And down with them goes plenty of your money. After all, water isn't dirt cheap anymore.

There is a way to get your toilet to talk. Install the valve with a voice, Fluidmaster's Toilet Tank Repair Valve. It's tattletale design sounds off a 15-second alert when a leaky flapper is at fault. Then, to remedy that, install Fluidmaster's Flusher Fixer, a high-tech version of the old flapper with extra long-life sealant and never-miss seating action. No more leaks, no more waste and no more midnight serenades.

The process is called a toilet tune-up. For a free brochure on how to do one yourself and save, write Fluidmaster, Inc., Box 4264, Anaheim, CA 92803.

We offer the FAIR way to earn tax-free interest.

Here's How It Works:

What is the Tax-Exempt All-Savers Certificate?

The Tax-Exempt All-Savers Certificate is a one-year certificate, issued between October 1, 1981 and December 31, 1982 with a yield equal to 70% of the average yield on 52-week Treasury Bills.

What is the certificate rate of interest based on?

The certificate must have a yield equal to 70% of the average yield on 52-week Treasury Bills.

The rate will be based on the most recent auction (before the week in which the certificate is issued).

The rate of interest, at the time you are issued your All-Savers Certificate, remains the same for the life of the certificate.

What is tax-exempt under these new savings certificate regulations?

The interest is tax-exempt up to certain maximums. The amount that anyone may exempt from income taxes under the new provisions is limited to a lifetime exclusion of $1000 ($2000 in the case of a joint return).

If, for example, you as an individual receive $800 of All-Savers interest in 1982 and $500 in 1983, only the first $1000 of interest income is tax-exempt.

In the case of a joint return, if both parties receive $1600 of All-Savers interest in 1982 and $1000 in 1983, only the first $2000 of interest income is tax-exempt.

What is the minimum deposit in an All-Savers Certificate?

The minimum deposit in an All-Savers Certificate is $500.

How long will I be able to earn this tax-exempt exclusion?

First of all, you must make your deposit in an All-Savers Certificate between October 1, 1981 and December 31, 1982.

Although no further All-Savers Certificates will be issued after December 31, 1982, the interest paid on such certificates properly issued through December 31, 1982 will be entitled to the exemption.

This means that all of the interest tax-exempt under this certificate will be earned by December 31, 1983.

What is the maturity period of these All-Savers Certificates?

The maturity period of these All-Savers Certificates is one year.

Can I use this certificate as collateral or security for a loan?

If you do, then the interest on the certificate loses its tax-exempt status and you will have to pay tax on the interest earned.

If I have to cash in my certificate prior to maturity, can I do so?

Yes, you can. However, you will lose the tax-exempt status on the interest on the certificate and all the interest earned will be subject to income tax.

A substantial penalty is required by law in the event of early withdrawal of funds from a certificate.
