

THOUSANDS MORE

FIRST TRAINS OF LIMITED SERVICE MEN ARRIVE.

Thousands more of men have poured into Camp Greene with the arrival of the first quota of limited service men to be assigned to duty here. There are now more than 4,000 of the restricted duty soldiers in the camp.

The new conscription recruits are located in the first tent section south of Liberty Park. Only a few of the new-comers have been fitted up with uniforms as yet and consequently are restricted to their immediate camp area until their khaki garb is furnished, which is expected to be early next week.

The limited service soldiers are men who are not physically fit for full army duty. Among the quotas that have arrived at the camp there are men who have lost the sight of an eye and notice has been taken of a one-armed recruit and of a man with a wooden leg. Most of these fellows have tried to enlist earlier in the war but could not be taken for regular service because of their physical defects. Their spirited bearing upon being given a chance for limited service is notable. They will be given a chance at clerical work and other light service and can be counted upon to deliver their best licks.

The limited service men began to arrive last Saturday night and continued to reach the camp until Tuesday morning. More quotas are expected early next week as definite calls have been delivered to limited service men of North Carolina with the statement that they would report to Camp Greene.

FOUR RETURN.

Among the many men that returned to duty this week from their furloughs are Privates First Class Falls, Russell, Paredaan and Warr.

ARRIVE ACROSS

Word has been received that the entire unit of Base Hospital Number Fifty-Four, which was made up at the Camp Greene Base Hospital, has arrived safely in France.

DISLOCATES ELBOW.

To add to the excitement of the fire drill on Tuesday afternoon word was brought to the detachment office to the effect that one of the men, Private First Class Hussey Wetterholm had sustained a serious injury in the performance of his duty.

In running down the rumor it was discovered that Private Wetterholm instead of being hurt in connection with the fire drill was injured in bringing up a number of mules from the re-mount depot. Riding one of the animals and leading the others it seems that he had been forced close to one of the trees near the roadside and was brushed off in passing by. He was rushed to the hospital by a passing ambulance and was admitted to Ward C-3 for treatment.

VISITS HOSPITAL.

Captain G. M. Gibson of Base Hospital No. 92 visited the U. S. Army base hospital on Tuesday. He was conducted through the various departments and he pronounced the plant a modern institution in every way.

HERE AGAIN.

After a very agreeable stay of ten days in his home in Indiana, Cartoonist Cook is back on his old job at the hospital.

ON PASS.

Hospital Sergeant Chester F. Leighton was absent over Labor Day visiting friends in Atlanta, Ga.

IMPRESSIVE PROGRAM

Lafayette Day was celebrated yesterday at the Liberty Theater at Camp Greene. The orchestra from the recruit camp lead the songs, the principal ones of which were: Marseillaise, Battle Hymn of the Republic, and The Star Spangled Banner. A prayer service was held after which there was a short address by Col. Kent, commander of the 810th Pioneer Infantry.

J. T. Mangum of the Y. M. C. A. also delivered a short speech.

A large and enthusiastic crowd was present.

ANOTHER WAR MAP.

One of the largest war maps now in use at the base hospitals is hung in the branch library. A number of pins are being used by Librarian Miss Marie Fox Wait and by assisting patients of the hospital in tracing the advance of the allies through the crumbling German line.

MAJOR PALFREY COMMANDS.

Major Francis Palfrey, chief of the medical service of the U. S. Army Base Hospital, Camp Greene acted as commanding officer of the hospital during most of the week and in the absence of Lieutenant-Colonel George W. Renn, the base hospital commander, who was in Washington, D. C., on official business.

SHOWS IMPROVEMENT.

The fire drill on Tuesday afternoon was a decided success from all standpoints. The scene of the supposed fire was reconstruction ward E-1. The time showed an improvement of a little better than a minute. Fire Marshal Lieutenant Harvey in addressing the men later, stated that the drill was quite the best that had been held recently.
