in the army. Unlike most army officers, Colonel Macomb graduated from Annapolis instead of West Point, but was soon afterwards transferred to the army. He wears on his breast bars representing five campaigns. He was in the campaigns against the Crow Indians in 1877 and in that against the Ute and Cheyenne Indians in 1879. He served in Porto Rico in the Spanish-American war and was in the Philippines from 1901 to 1903. He was with Pershing in Mexico in 1916.

Colonel Macomb was a member of the military court which tried the negro troops that engaged in the famous riot at Houston, Texas, when eleven of the principals were hanged and a number of others sentenced to life imprisonment.

Colonel Macomb's father was an army officer, Colonel John Macomb of the United States engineers. He is a descendant of John Livingston, signer of the declaration of independence. Colonel Macomb has three sons in the service, one in the navy and two in the army.

GOES NORTH.

Edward H. Wilson of the fatigue gang is absent on furlough to Northbridge, somewhere in Massachusetts. It is expected that he will return at the expiration of his leave.

ANOTHER TRAVELER.

The serious illness of his brother necessitated the hurried departure of Andrew Bogin to his home in Indiana, where he will endeavor to console the afflicted man.

Cpl. J. P. Lyon of the detachment office is back in his old position again after a leave of ten days spent in his home at Bridgeport, Conn.

Among the others who have been absent on furloughs and have returned to this station for duty are Roy Foust, Raymond Green, John Kelley and George McFarlane.

The rabbits and guinea pigs have been blessed with a new boss for the past week or so in the person of Pvt. Leo Caron who has been in charge of the animal house during Pvt. Griswold's sojourn in the hospital.
