WHY SELMA SHOULD SURVIVE

BY M. L. STANCL

In these times of sore depression, when business is hard to keep alive, We have men who give expression to the fact that Selma will survive. There are fertile fields all about us with busy farmers ever alert, Raising cattle, hogs and poultry and growing produce from the dirt.

O'er the Coast Line or the Southern we can get all kinds of freight, Or secure a passport from mountains to see anywhere in the State. Too, we have a highway network for the driver of the individual car, So we can travel if we want to, or can stay right where we are.

When you feel that the task is too great and your courage dwindles, Think of our industries—our busy mills with thousands of spindles. There's the Selma and the Ethel with curling smoke just to the west; To the east we have the Lizzie with quaint little homes a perfect nest.

There is also a large factory located on our southern border, Where V-C Fertilizer is made to supply any kind of an order. Near this plant is located the busy mill of the Southern Cotton Oil, And in these two large plants many busy workers daily toil.

All these busy workers must be kept warm, clothed and fed, Which makes Selma a market place for clothing, meat and bread. Selma is also a central point for the busy railroad crews, And the home of The Johnstorian-Sun which weekly gives the news.

The Southern Bell Telephone Company gives out a daily news relay, Through which many daily papers are given the news each day. The charity workers of our town are ever trying to help the poor, So that utter want and starvation will not come to any one's door.

While taxes here seem rather burdensome and mighty hard to bear, If anyone knows where they are lower, tell us please, just where? We have in Selma a number of doctors to prescribe for our ills, And our druggists will be delighted to prepare the necessary pills.

If you should run afoul and someone cut from you a slice, We have several lawyers who can give you some legal advice. If heavy hearted and your life is weighted down with sin and woe, We have several churches which can help you into Christians grow.

If you have some surplus money and haven't lost faith in every bank, Selma has an institution that stands right up in the very first rank. So whatever it may be that Selma at present has not got, Just tell us about your troubles and we'll soon have it on the spot.

Mrs. Vick Entertains.

Mrs. Geo. D. Vick was charming hostess at a lovely Valentine Party, Tuesday afternoon at her home on Massey Street. The living room and dining room were ensuite and decorated with cut flowers, potted primroses and begonias, a color motif of red and white being observed, in keeping with the Valentine season. Six tables of Hearts-Dice were in play during the afternoon, after ten progressions, it was found that Mrs. J. D. Massey had made most progressions and received a large heart-shaped box of candy. Miss Mary Martin received the consolation prize which was a small heart-shaped box of candy. The holder of high score at each table was presented the centerpiece, which was a lovely blooming begonia. These fortunate ladies were Mesdames C. E. Kornegay, W. W. Hare, C. A. Bailey, J. D. Massey, R. D. Blackburn and Miss Braswell.

Tempting refreshments, consisting of chicken salad, stuffed tomatoes, potato chips, heart-shaped sandwiches and hot coffee, was followed by fruit cake topped with whipped cream. The hostess was assisted in entertaining and serving by Mrs. W. H. Call.

Entertains Book Club.

Miss Margaret Etheredge was hostess to the Friday Afternoon Book Club at her home on Anderson Street, February 5th. Routine business was presided over by Mrs. C. A. Jacobs. The literary program consisted of a biographical study of Edwin Arlington Robinson, given by Mrs. J. B. Person, in which she stated that after graduation at Harvard, his climb to success was long and arduous, despite the championship of President Roosevelt. However, he now occupies, with Robert Frost, twin summits of our poetry—eminences to which no American poets, since Poe and Whitman, have ever attained.

Mrs. Geo. D. Vick gave a general consideration of Robinson's works and reviewed several of his poems. At the close of the program the hostess served a delicious salad course and coffee. Mrs. C. F. Duntan, of Windsor, was a special guest.

CARD OF THANKS.

I wish to express my sincere thanks to Mrs. Breitz' Sunday School Class of the Selma Cotton Mill, and all other good Christians, for the good things you have given me. I certainly appreciate everything that was sent me. May God bless one and all of you.

MRS. LENA HICKS.

Currituck Music Teachers in Selma.

Miss Stella Etheredge and four other all-time music teachers from Currituck County, were guests of Miss Margaret Etheredge last week end. They were enroute to Charlotte, Greensboro, High Point, Winston-Salem and other cities in North Carolina. They are required to spend this week in observing some of the best music classes in the State, as nothing but the best will satisfy Currituck's Superintendent. Miss Etheredge has taught music in Selma, where her ability is well known. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Etheredge, of this city.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Services at the Selma Baptist Church next Sunday will be at 11:00 A. M. and at 7:30 P. M.

At the morning hour the pastor will speak on the subject, "The Church of Tomorrow."

At the evening service the pastor will give a brief review of the life of the great missionary Adoniram Judson. The young people will have charge of the music for the evening service.

The Sunday-school Orchestra is making progress under the direction of Miss Mildred Perkins. The Senior B. Y. P. U. meets Monday at 7:30 P. M.

Miss Anne Noble Entertains At Dinner Bridge

Miss Anne Noble entertained at dinner Monday evening. Covers were laid for eight, and the guests found their places on Valentine hearts. The center piece was a bowl of white narcissus and red tapers in silver holders burned at each end of the table. After dinner bridge was enjoyed and after several progressions, Mr. Thomas held high score and was presented a deck of cards. Score cards were also Valentines. Those enjoying the evening were Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Waters, Misses Margaret Hall and Patsy Braswell; Prof. Jean Nelson, of State College; Mr. Earl Thomas and Prof. J. G. Boyette.

DON'T FAIL TO SEE THE OLD Maids' Convention at Selma School auditorium Thursday night, February 18th, at 7:30. One-act comedy. A good laugh won't hurt any of you. Admission 10c and 20c.

MR. FARMER—YOU LIKE TO read and the Editor of the Johnstorian-Sun has to eat, so bring him enough country produce to pay a year's subscription to this paper and get the highest market price for same.

SELMA DEFEATS SMITHFIELD IN SECOND GAME.

Selma defeated Smithfield in the second game of a series of five games of bridge to decide the championship of the two towns Tuesday night at the Brick Hotel by 112 points. The total number of points made by Smithfield was 618 and Selma 6230. The third game of the series will be played in Smithfield Friday night of this week. Those playing Tuesday night for Smithfield were Ross Gordon, Levin Jones, Kenneth Parrish and Delma Brown; for Selma, Ralph Woodard, Moses Godwin, Edwin Raines and Prof. J. G. Boyette. Two other tables composed of A. J. Holliday, E. V. Woodard, Clarence Bailey, Hunter Price, A. F. Sydenstricker, Raleigh O. Ginn, Roger Strickland, Walter Booker were in play. Winfield Lyon, Jr., of Smithfield, and H. H. Lowry sponsors of the contest, and Wilbur Perkins, John McGill, Ernest Williams, Dr. E. N. Booker witnessed the contest which was intensely interesting.

The winners of this contest have been challenged by teams representing Clayton, Kenly, Benson and Dunn.

Special Meeting of Workers Council.

The Methodist Sunday School Workers' Council held an inspirational meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Woodard, Tuesday evening, February 9th. Mr. Woodard, Superintendent of the Sunday school, presided, and heard interesting reports from the various departments.

Rev. L. T. Singleton was present and made a number of suggestions by which the general tone of the Sunday school might be improved. A helpful round-table discussion followed, during which time plans were made to organize a band to play for Sunday school services. Mesdames W. H. Call and J. C. Diehl were appointed leaders.

At the close of the meeting, hot coffee and gingerbread was served. The next council meeting will be held with Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Breitz in March.
