DEMOCRATS SUFFER AT HANDS OF MACHINE

As a result of the large vote polled for R. H. Richardson in the Democratic primary on June 4th up in Wilders township, it now seems evident that some of the Democrats are agreed with the repeated assertions of the Republicans, that those Wilders Democrats have a way of securing votes and counting votes that is shamefully corrupt. The same weapons which were used to defeat the Republicans in that township on numerous occasions in the past seem to have been used on some of the Democratic aspirants in the recent primary. We got our authority for this statement from Democratic sources, and not from any defeated candidate either.

Certain Democrats in Wilders township have a way of securing an alarmingly great number of absentee ballots on the day of election, and it has been alleged on former occasions that they actually crossed the border line and brought voters out of Wake county and voted them in that township.

It is only a question as to how long honest, truthful, patriotic, liberty-loving Democrats or Republicans are willing to submit to such treatment at the hands of a few political crooks. Whenever the honest people of the county and State come to the front and demand honest elections they can get them and not until then, for the dishonest element is neither going to demand an honest deal or give an honest deal. It is up to the honest people to get their honest due, and they should come to the front on election day and demand fair play.

The writer was a poll holder at the recent primary held in Selma, and he is willing to say without hesitation that the conduct of the recent primary election in Selma township was carried out with as much fairness to all parties concerned as any election we ever witnessed here or elsewhere. While we had workers who were enthusiastic for their favorite candidates, the game was played on the square, or at least as nearly so as it has been our pleasure to witness in a long time.

We had no political axe to grind in the matter of how the Democrats voted in their primary, but we were pleased to witness a square deal. We have always stood for a square deal for both Democrats and Republicans, and we can't help but have much respect and the highest of regards for those Democrats or Republicans who play the political game on the square. We do not mean to be handing Selma people bouquets just because we live in Selma, but when we take into consideration the number of voters in this township, and with the heated political contests from time to time, we must say that Selma is about as clean a town politically as we have ever seen.

General Daws says that he is not a candidate for the Vice Presidential nomination before the Republican National convention now being held in the city of Chicago, and that he hopes his friends will not embarrass him by their support.

Frank D. Grist, defeated Democratic candidate for United States senate, now declares himself in favor of Cam Morrison.

Washington news dispatches said Tuesday that there were 20,000 World War veterans assembled in Washington, and that with the deluge of rain and food supplies diminishing, conditions were becoming rather alarming. Sanitary conditions were said to be bad in and about the encampment.

Forces now seem to be lining up for a battle royal in

CONCERNING VETERANS' BONUS

BY M. L. STANCIL

When it comes to the consideration of the bonus question, We have had a hesitancy to even give an expression, Because we have no doubt that the boys' needs are great, And seventeen more years is quite a long time to wait.

But then there are others whose interests are at stake, When we consider the amount of money it's going to take. Two billion dollars is certainly not a measly little sum, And the government couldn't replace it in years to come.

If the government had the money, it'd be a different thing, But they've been at work on the budget all this spring— They have increased taxes and cut out operating expense, And yet the government deficit is something immense.

The country's best brain was employed on this great task, With a hope that the veterans would not another bonus ask; Since they were granted a big loan about one year ago, It looks like our government should have a little show.

Congressmen are being asked to use their political pull, To have the government pay up these veterans in full. Just what will be done, of course, is yet to be seen, But two billions of dollars is a big pile of long green.

So big, in fact, that we cannot conceive as to its size, And if placed in a single stack would reach to the skies. With the treasury empty and daily falling further behind, It looks like poor patriotism to press a move of this kind.

They favor selling bonds so they can be paid any how, But bonded indebtedness is mostly what ails us now. They don't seem to consider the government going in debt, But if they can get theirs, then the government can sweat.

This does not apply to every fellow who went off to war, Because money was not all that they were fighting for; They loved their homes, their country and its grand old flag, And didn't aim that its stripes in the dust should drag.

These are the boys who are loyal until this very day— More interested in their country than they are their pay. Such a spirit we should all most reverently cherish, Lest our patriotism should die and our country perish.

the Democratic State convention between the wet and the dry forces in party ranks, and many who supported Al Smith, a dripping wet, in 1928, now are lining up against Bob Reynolds, a modification candidate, who led Cam Morrison in the recent primary by 15,000 votes majority. This would indicate that the Democratic machine in North Carolina is capable to be reversed to run in any direction when the right forces are at the steering wheel.

Ex-Senator Simmons comes out with the announcement that he is for the nomination of Cam Morrison for United States senator, which would indicate that the veteran Senator's age is telling on him.

The political trend among Democrats in North Carolina is showing up largely in favor of nominating Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Presidency, which seems to indicate that the Democratic politicians are willing for a dry candidate to help make the laws and then depend upon a "wet" to enforce them.

In the Chocowinity section, near Washington, N. C., this week, when triplets were born to Mrs. Ernest Hardison, it was found that there was only clothing prepared for one, and this called for speedy action to secure raiment for the other two.

President Hoover has been represented as favoring having injected into the National Republican platform a plank favoring a re-submission of the Eighteenth Amendment to a vote of the people, but that he bitterly opposes making a recommendation that this amendment be repealed.

The News and Observer is very liberal with its space in an effort to brand North Carolina Republicans as a mere handful of federal office holders who are ready subjects to the pop-lash of the bosses; but it is silent in seven languages when it comes to talking about how, at this very moment, Democratic office holders in North Carolina are falling in line to the tune of Administration leaders in order to retain Cameron Morrison in the United States Senate because he is a Ring politician.

Senator Lester J. Dickinson, of Iowa, delivered the key-note address to the Republican National convention in the great stadium at Chicago at noon Tuesday, his audience numbering more than 20,000 people.

It was announced from the Chicago stadium where the Republican National convention was being held Tuesday, said that the personnel of the convention was unlike most prior conventions of its kind, in that besides the regular delegates, practically all the noted men in the national Republican party was present. He named a number of prominent figures in the audience, and described it as one of the greatest gatherings of prominent figures, both men and women, ever to be assembled in this country.

The Raleigh Times was for the nomination of Bob Reynolds on the day of the primary, but as soon as it was evident that Bob had made a long jump and had outdistanced all his opponents, then the Times flops, over night, and said it had supported Reynolds as a joke. A mighty poor excuse for changing its attitude, but we suspect it was about the best could be done under the circumstances. We have had at least one man to tell us that he was so disgusted at the Times' attempted explanation for its change in attitude that he did not care to read The Time any more.

HOW TO BRING BACK GOOD TIMES

Nothing could do more to bring back good times than assurance of a decrease in taxes during the next few years.

Every effort should be made to increase governmental efficiency, eliminate waste and duplication of effort and do away with the bureaus and commissions that milk the taxpayer dry. Doing this would not damage the functions of government it would greatly improve them.

CONSTIPATION

"If I got constipated, I would get dizzy and have swimming in my head. I would have very severe headache."

"For a while I thought I wouldn't take anything—maybe I could wear out the headaches; but I found they were wearing me out."

"I found Black-Draught would relieve this, so when I have the very first symptoms, I take Black-Draught and now I don't have the headache."

"I am a firm believer in Black-Draught, and after using it 20 or more years, I am satisfied to continue its use."

High taxes have throttled industrial development in England. They have done the same thing in Germany, in Austria, in Australia and elsewhere. They are doing the same thing here. High taxes make and prolong unemployment, cause hoarding of capital and frighten investors. In short, their whole influence is toward the prolongation of depression.
