

COURT NEWS

Bud Hooks, 54, was tried in Recorder's court last week on a charge of possession of half a pint of illegal whiskey. Prayer for judgment was continued upon the payment of the cost.

David Stanton, 34, of Fort Bragg was convicted of operating a car while intoxicated. He was fined $50 and taxed with the cost, the cost to include $15 for the prosecuting witness as the damages to his car.

Randall Cash, 28, pleaded guilty to breaking jail and malicious injury to county (public) property. He was sentenced to six months on the roads, this term to begin at the expiration of the sentence he is now serving.

Bernice White and David Williams, colored, were charged with false pretense. Probable cause was found and both defendants were bound over to Superior court.

The court modified as follows the sentence of Eugene Hill: His road term to be suspended upon the payment into court for the benefit of his wife and children the sum of $10 and the sum of $12.50 on the first of each month thereafter until further orders from court. Hill was convicted of assault with deadly weapon on his wife and of abandonment and non-support of his wife and child, and was given six months on the roads on each count.

STATE COLLEGE LIVESTOCK JUDGES RANK HIGH

RALEIGH, OCT. 22—Ranking second in a highly competitive field of eastern intercollegiate livestock judges, State College's team (pictured here) placed far ahead of such schools as Cornell, Penn State and the University of West Virginia, in the annual Baltimore Fat Stock Show. V.P.I. was first, nosing out N. C. State 4,205 to 4,181. Left to right: Coach C. D. Swaffar; Cecil M. Jackson, Sampson County; Eston S. Stokes, Linwood; C. H. Kirkman, Jr., Pleasant Garden; Mack Setser, Franklin; and Paul J. Brown, Jr., Charlotte. Setser was sixth high individual scorer at the show, and the team as a whole ranked first in judging beef cattle. Brown was top scorer in the beef cattle division.

Editors And Agents Comprise Farm Team

Weekly newspaper editors and county farm and home agents make up a team that has been one of the most potent forces in the improvement of farming and rural living in the past 25 years. Those are the sentiments of M. L. Wilson, director of Extension for the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Director I. O. Schaub of the State College Extension Service says he heartily concurs in the views expressed by the Federal leader.

Of the beginning of this period of team work, Director Wilson says, "The United States was nearing the end of the row as far as new land was concerned. In the more carefully cultivated sections, farming methods lagged behind experimental advances in agricultural science. Into this picture stepped the county agent and traveled from farm to farm on foot, on horseback, and in buggies.

"On the county editor the agent leaned heavily from the earliest days. Usually the work of the county agent made good newspaper copy. Frequently he would write a column of his own in the weekly paper and his writings were compact with good sense.

"Judged solely as a job in practical, popular education, the achievement of the county agent ranks high in American social history. The county agent is now equipped with an automobile and a clerical force in his office, but is most frequently to be found at some farm talking about crops and rural improvements. The weekly editor is still one of his most highly valued allies."

To this Director Schaub of the North Carolina Extension Service adds: "Agricultural Extension work simply is giving information about better ways of farm living and one of the best methods of reaching a farm audience is through the columns of local papers whose editors the farm people know and trust.

"Since the summer of 1914 exclusive copy for weekly papers has been mailed each week from the office of Frank H. Jeter, State College editor. The weekly newspapers of North Carolina have, since the beginning, given liberally of their space to this cooperative program of rural betterment."

FARM Questions - Answers

QUESTION: How much wheat per acre may I expect under normal conditions?

ANSWER: When properly grown, on good land, wheat should yield at least 20 bushels per acre, says E. C. Blair, Extension agronomist of N. C. State College. In view of conditions caused by the European War, he advises that three acres of wheat be planted for every farm family this fall, or ten acres for every farm, whichever is larger.

QUESTION: When should spring-flowering bulbs be planted?

ANSWER: The sooner they can be planted, the better they will bloom, says J. G. Weaver, State College floriculturist. They should be planted in October, at least. Prepare the soil well before planting any bulbs. The soil should be pulverized and worked to a depth of at least 10 inches. Commercial fertilizer at a rate of three pounds per 100 square feet may be used if mixed with the soil. A complete fertilizer high in potash is recommended. A two-inch layer of well-rotted manure may be used if it is worked thoroughly into the soil. Cover each bulb with twice its own depth of soil.

QUESTION: How can I obtain circulars, bulletins and other publications on farming and rural home-making subjects?

ANSWER: Address a request to the Agricultural Editor, State College, Raleigh, N. C., and state the subject in which you are interested. All publications issued by the Agriculture Extension Service and the Agricultural Experiment Station of N. C. State College are free to citizens of North Carolina. Use a postal card where possible in making the request and do not ask for additional information on the card. Use another card or letter for questions regarding specific phases of work. All available publications are listed in Extension Folder No. 35 which will be sent free upon request.
