Christian Endeavor Hears G. Ira Ford

The Christian Endeavor organization of the Christian Church had the privilege of hearing Mr. Ira Ford of Smithfield, Sunday evening.

Mr. Ford used "Peace" for his subject. Forcefully and appealingly he discussed this all important topic today.

Besides this outstanding feature on the program there was a splendid message by Miss Ola Hinson; dramas in which Miss Doris Parrish and Mr. Shelton Barbour; Misses Ola Hinson, Doris Parrish, and Eunice Lee participated. Solo parts on the program were taken by Miss Eunice Lee and Mr. S. R. Cotton. Accompanists were Mrs. Noah Wilson and Mrs. Nelson Wilson. Mr. Noah Wilson, Jr., was the capable program leader.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR NOV. 7, 1943

"THE SACREDNESS OF HUMAN LIFE"

Ex. 20:13; Matt. 5:21-26, 38-45

By EDWIN MILLER
GOLDEN TEXT: "Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer." 1 John 15.

To correctly understand the sixth commandment, "Thou shalt not kill" we must understand that the original meaning was "Thou shalt do no murder." That the Mosaic law made provision for the taking of life due to unavoidable accidents, criminal negligence, or participation in war is obvious to the diligent student of the Bible. Self-defense was justifiable so we may conclude that a defensive war is also.

One does not have to wield a pistol or knife to commit murder. Drunken drivers are among the nation's foremost murderers. Suicide committed by a sane person because of a cowardice or because of some shameful deed is nothing short of murder. Just as self-defense was justified, we see a war defense would not be included under this commandment. America should be shamed at the appalling thousands of murders committed here. The basic reason for this is mankind's ignoring the sacredness of human life. Man's life is sacred because God created man in the image of Himself, and he has an immortal soul.

Jesus seeks to abolish murder by starting at its source. Passing laws or even executing every guilty murderer would not solve the problem. The seed of murder is planted when hatred enters the human mind. Our Golden Text brings that out forcibly, saying "Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer." Hatred is the poison which finally results in murder, if not arrested by its only antidote—Love.

Then Jesus points out that back of the deed, murder has its beginnings in anger. This leads to contempt and therefore is dangerous.

Anger is a dangerous germ which quickly breeds into the spirit of malice and hate. Jesus forbids the use of "Raca" whose modern equivalent is "emptyhead". It was used to express contempt and was equivalent to blasphemy, showing an utter disregard for the dignity and worth of the person. "Thou fool" is an expression of even greater contempt and anger, harboring the feeling of wishing the absolute destruction of the person hated. We summarize this point by quoting, "Causeless and unreasonable anger, whether expressed or unexpressed, is virtual murder, and as such exposes him who cherishes it to the everlasting Gehenna (hell-fire)."

Next Jesus teaches worship must come from pure hearts. Something about malice and jealousy and envy which makes it impossible for us to approach God sincerely when they are present. We will be reconciled to our enemies, if possible, before we worship.

The Remedy—Love
Jesus now tells us how to avoid personal strife. Agree with adversaries quickly. Do not return evil for evil, but overcome evil with good. Love not only our neighbors, but also our enemies and pray for them. I believe firmly that the war will be shortened, if God wills, should the Christians of the United Nations would humble themselves and pray for their enlightenment of their present enemies.

The reason why we are to love, pray, and do good when possible to worldly enemies is explained by Jesus—because God, our Father, gives his blessings on evil and good. "He loves those who have rebelled against him and rejected his grace. He loves those who are soaked and ugly in sin." We are to be like our Heavenly Father.

It will be hard to refrain from hate and only love, but only thus can we win over the forces of evil, active on both sides of the war.

COME TO SUNDAY SCHOOL SUNDAY.

Farm News

QUESTION: Can you tell me how to take better care of the belts on my farm machinery?

ANSWER: David S. Weaver, head of the department of agricultural engineering at State College, suggests that first of all belts must be kept clean. Machine oil should not be allowed to come in contact with belts. Dampness makes belts become harsh and loosens the cement and, therefore, they should be kept dry. If it is necessary to run a belt under wet conditions, a belt capable of withstanding dampness should be used. Do not run a belt vertically, if possible. Keep proper tension on the belt for good power transmission and to lengthen the life of the belt.

QUESTION: Can I buy a pressure canner now for next year?

ANSWER: Yes, says Ruth Current, State Home Leader of the State College Extension Service. Find a dealer who has pressure canners for sale. A supply of 7 quart and 14 quart canners are available under relaxed regulations. The supply of the 14 quart canner is somewhat limited. Persons who need pressure canners may apply directly to the local War Board Committee for a certificate or get the old certificate reviewed under new rulings. "Now is the time to buy a pressure canner," says Miss Ruth Current.

QUESTION: Who classes the cotton samples sent in by ginners from one-variety cotton communities?

ANSWER: These samples are classified by a Board of Cotton Examiners of the United States Department of Agriculture, says Dan F. Holler, Extension Cotton Marketing Specialist at State College. The examiners are all licensed Government classifiers and are checked daily by the USDA supervising board at Memphis, Tenn. The classifiers give the grade and staple of each bale of cotton. Before the classing card is returned from Raleigh to the grower, the loan value of the cotton is stamped on the classing card to guide the farmer in determining the value of his cotton.

Writing Government Pay Checks Big Job

Washington, Oct. 17. — The Federal government is paying bills at the rate of $7,500,000,000 a month — a task that requires the writing of 1,000,000 checks each working day, or 300,000,000 a year.

So stupendous is the job that three major disbursing agencies, the War, Navy and Treasury department, keep huge staffs busy around the clock paying off Uncle Sam's creditors.

Boast of the departments, complaints of business notwithstanding, is that they pay off promptly. They claim that 85 per cent of the bills are being paid within 30 days, 12 per cent in from 30 to 60 days, and less than three per cent in longer periods. The Army disburses about $4,000,000,000 a month, the Navy $2,000,000,000 and the Treasury $1,500,000,000, including purchases for lend-lease.

A 1943 sweet potato loan program has been worked out and it will be administered by the AAA, says War Board Memorandum 441.

Know Your Pharmacist Better! Ask Your Doctor--He Knows

A registered Pharmacist must be a high school graduate; graduate from a four-year college course in Pharmacy; have at least two years practical experience; pass a rigid State Board examination; renew his registration each year.

National Pharmacy Week!

There is a decided tendency for us to accept the numerous conveniences and health-giving preparations offered by the modern druggist with little or no consideration of the laborious effort that has been expended by research workers in their development. The trend of modern business has led us too often to think of the Druggist as simply another merchant—purveyor of numerous articles. Modern merchandising may have made him a druggist, but fundamentally he is a PHARMACIST. The thousand and one items which greet your eye when you enter a drug store are there because they offer a way for adequate remuneration, provide a living, and because they provide the materials for carrying on the profession of Pharmacy. Concerning the worthwhile gifts that have been contributed by Pharmacists, one of the most important of these was the discovery of OPIUM, by Frederick W. Serturmerin, in 1816. Codiene, Phosphoric Acid, Tartaric Acid, Bromine, Nux Vomica, Quinine and dozens of commonly known drugs may be mentioned. During the course of the last decade many advances have been made in American Pharmacy. Perhaps in no other field of retail business are the requirements so exacting. The result is that men who are not of high moral, intellectual and physical standards seldom are able to attain a degree in PHARMACY. Your druggist is more than a merchant, he is a professional man, a man who has dedicated his life to the cause of lessening other men's physical ailments, a man who knows drugs, their origin, their preparation and their uses.

He is a man whom you may depend upon in times of sickness for your medicine, and for your numerous needs when you are well. Such is the work of your medicine man — THE RETAIL PHARMACIST. His is a brotherhood intent not only on making a decent living, but largely devoted to serving you in sickness and in health.

Dedicated to the Defense of your Health in Cooperation with the Fine Doctors of this Community.
