Kinston, Key City to Eastern Carolina, Welcomes Federation

By MRS. H. B. BYNUM

More than two hundred years ago, in 1740, William Heritage came to Kinston from New Bern, to what was then the wilderness of our great State. In 1750, Richard Caswell of Maryland settled here and became the first governor of North Carolina under the Constitution. Located on U. S. Highways 70 and 258 Kinston has developed into a thriving town with a 99 per cent American population of 22,000.

Among Our Clubs Wilson

The Mary McLeod Bethune Civic Club of Wilson looks forward with keen anticipation to the coming convention at Kinston. Maintaining the club's traditional activity, the loyal members sent to the Girls' Training School a Christmas box filled with personal gifts to be distributed to the girls there. Other charitable projects included baskets of fruit and general provisions sent to the aged and shut in persons of our town, a community tree, and a donation of $25 for the D. O. department of the Wilson High School. The consciousness of having added some pleasure to the needy, heightened the holiday joy of our members in their own merry Yuletide party.

The Mercy Hospital Auxiliary raised $381.61 in the Community Chest drive and donated twenty-five dollars to the high school. Baskets of fruit made attractive gifts to all patients in the Hospital.

The Book and Garden Club is proud of its Year Book. Less than a year old, the club projects a most stimulating and helpful program. The success of a tour to Williamsburg, last Summer has given impetus toward plans for another tour to
