Upon The Same Old Peg.

The Dawson (Va.) News the following story from Webster: One day in 1862, Sidney Shivers, son of the venerable, "Uncle" James M. Shivers, then eighteen years of age, entered his father's house, and divesting himself of his hat and clothes, dressed himself in the uniform of a Confederate soldier in order to enter the southern army, in the meantime hanging the hat and clothes that he once wore upon a peg in his room. From that day to this the hat and clothes have hung in that same place, not a hand having been allowed to touch them in all that time, for they have been held sacred to the memory of the young Confederate soldier who put them there. The life of Sidney Shivers went out soon after he entered the army, but these mute memorials of the boy who once wore the gray still hang where they were placed by him twenty-six years ago—untouched in all that time.

Is the time never to come when it will be understood that a lawyer can not render even a technical service in a corrupt transaction without sharing the odium of it, and having to answer before the tribunals of the profession.—New York Tribune, Rep.

Libby Prison.

PURCHASED BY A WESTERN SYNDICATE—IT WILL BE PULLED DOWN AND RE-ERECTED IN CHICAGO.
Richmond Dispatch.

Libby Prison is to leave Richmond. Root and branch, roof and floors, is to be plucked up and carried to Chicago, there to be made the gaze and show of the people of the West. Brick by brick, timber by timber, nail by nail, it will be taken down, and as this is done each piece will be numbered, and the whole vast mass of material of this four story structure, transported to Chicago, there to be re-erected. The understanding is one of the greatest on record, and Richmond loses one of the chiefest objects of interests for northern tourists.

A Dispatch reporter some years ago interviewed a number of backmen as to what it was in Richmond that most tourists first wished to see. The answer from nearly all was "Libby Prison."

Richmond has the finest monumental pile of bronze and granite in the world. It has the oldest American capitol and the oldest State records; it has within her limits the grave of Chief Justice Marshall, Monroe, Tyler A. P. Hill, Stuart and Pickett. It has the church where Patrick Henry made his speech, "Give me liberty or give me death;" it has the house where President Davis lived while he waged one of the mightiest of modern wars; it has a thousand other things that ought to interest the man of mind—but the northern and western tourist above all wished to see Libby Prison.

Hereafter they will not come to Richmond—they will go to Chicago to see it.

Josiah Cratty, one of the corporators, in talking of the scheme, said: "It should be understood that there is no idea of waving the 'bloody shirt' in this. It is simply a business speculation for what there is in it."

Why Stanford Voted for Lamar.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Senator Stanford, of California, has written the following letter to a constituent who asked his reason for voting for the confirmation of Mr. Lamar as a Justice of the United States Supreme Court:

"WASHINGTON, Feb. 6, 1888.

"Your letter asking my reasons for voting for Mr. Lamar received. I voted for him because I considered him one of the best men in the South for the place. He is, in my judgment, a broad, liberal-minded man, of a great deal of learning. He was professor of law in a university in Mississippi. I think he is a thoroughly converted Unionist, and I do not think it wise to reject any one on the ground alone that he were engaged in the late rebellion. I think that we want to be one people, politically and socially. Gen. Grant expressed the idea when he said 'Let us have peace.' Mr. Lamar's loyalty and integrity to the Union was passed upon most conclusively when both Houses of Congress provided for the succession to the presidency and made him an heir only a few removes from the Presidency. I was reluctant to find myself not in harmony with all the Republican Senators, but it was a case, so far as my action was concerned, entirely for my own judgment and conscience, and I voted accordingly.

Respectfully yours,

"LELAND STANFORD."

Mrs. Alice Cox Secures a Divorce

The suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Alice Cox, of this city, against her husband, Franklin Cox, of Philadelphia, which has been in the courts of New York for the past few months, has been finally disposed of. The result is that Mrs. Cox has not only secured and absolute divorce, but will receive a handsome alimony until she dies, the money being secured by a first lien on Cox's possessions, which, during the course of the investigation, were ascertained to be worth half a million dollars. It had been generally supposed that the gay Franklin was worth a million.

The Florida Central and Western Railroad, the Western Division of the Florida Railway and Navigation Company's road, from Jacksonville via Tallahassee to the Chattahoochee, with its local branches, was sold Monday, W. Bayard Cutting, of New York, being the highest bidder. The price was $1,210,000.

Food Adulteration.

"KILLING MORE PEOPLE THAN WHISKEY" SAYS A MERCHANT.
Lynchburg News.

"Can't something be done to stop the adulteration of articles of food?" a Main street retailer asked a News reporter yesterday.

"Lots has been done," replied the reporter, "and you can judge what good effect it has had."

"Well I should say it had amounted to nothing," said the retailer "and although I am a prohibitionist I honestly believe that twice as many are killed by food adulteration than by whiskey drinking." How much adulterated do you think is most of the lard that comes here? It is forty per cent! Agents have admitted that a per cent is of cotton seed oil, water, barytes, ect. ect."

"Why do people buy that lard?" "Simply because it is cheap. Adulterated lard sells for 10 cent per pound, and pure Virginia lard at 12 cents and can be sold cheaper. It is surprising that people who are aware of the adulteration of lard, continue to try it when pure lard would be cheaper at 15 cents per pound."

"Is lard the only article of food that is adulterated?"

"Great Caesar, no! What is there that is not adulterated more or less. Sugar, coffee, flour, and in fact nearly everything. That is why I ask if something can't be done? and I believe that people are killed every day by eating adulterated articles of food."
